Carter commutes Liddy sentence

by CLAY F. RICHARDS

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Carter Tuesday commuted the sentence of G. Gordon Liddy, the enigmatic mastermind of the Watergate burglary whose bungled breakin led to the toppling of Richard Nixon.

Liddy, who will be eligible for parole July 9, will have served just over four years of a sentence of six years, eight months to 20 years for the June 17, 1972, burglary of Democratic National Committee headquarters in the Watergate complex.

Deputy Press Sec. Rex Granum said he believed "it's doubtful" Carter would take similar action with others convicted in Watergate, including former Atty. Gen. John Mitchell and top Nixon White House aides H. R. Haldeman and John D. Ehrlichman.

GRANUM SAID Carter "took this action in the interest of equity and fairness based on a comparison of Mr. Liddy's sentence with those of all others convicted in Watergate-related prosecutions."

Liddy's attorney, Peter Maroulis of Poughkeepise, N.Y., said after talking with Liddy in prison:

"We're very pleased and grateful to President Carter for reducing Mr. Liddy's sentence and bringing it into line with those received by Mr. (Howard) Hunt, Mr. Ehrlichman, Mr. Haldeman, Mr. Mitchell.

"Mr. Liddy is pleased, for the first time, that he was being treated fairly and equally."

Hunt, also one of the original seven Watergate defendants, was released in February after serving 32 months of a maximum eight-year sentence.

MITCHELL, Haldeman and Ehrlichman all received maximum sentences of eight years in the Watergate cover-up, and are likely to serve only

Area firms hike mortgage costs

by JOE FRANZ

A high demand for home loans has caused at least three Chicago area savings and loans to raise the cost of mortgage money and has others considering similar action.

And some savings and loan officials predict rates might reach 9 per cent this year.

Cragin Federal Savings, Schaumburg, Tuesday raised interest rates from 8.5 per cent to 8.75 per cent for 80 per cent mortgages (20 per cent down payment).

THE ACTION followed a decision Monday by First Federal Savings and Loan Assn. of Chicago to raise its rates from 8.5 per cent to 8.75 per cent and one by Talman Federal Savings and Loan Assn., Chicago, to raise its rates from 8.5 per cent to 8-5/8 per cent.

First Federal also raised its service charge on loans from 1 per cent to 1.5 per cent of the mortgage loan.

Eugene A. Bensinger, assistant vice president of First Federal, said the action was taken because of the extremely high demand for Watering cutback to two days?

Lawn sprinkling in Arlington Heights will be cut back to two days a week this summer if a proposal by Public Works Director Gene Willroth is approved.

Willroth said he will present specific water conservation proposals within a month.

Village ordinances now allow lawn sprinkling on Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays. Any change in the ordinance could not be enforced until 30 days after it is passed by the village board.

Willroth said he also may suggest that the village limit the hours for sprinkling in an effort to conserve water.

"Too many limitations make enforcements harder, though. We want something that's easy for the residents to live with. Then you don't have to worry about enforcement so much," Willroth said.

STRICT ENFORCEMENT of the 1972 lawn sprinkling ordinance was begun last summer by village officials as public works employes patrolled streets in search of violators and police officers issued citations when violations were noticed.

Assistant Village Atty. Ernest Blomquist said 73 residents were issued citations for illegal sprinkling last summer and 60 were convicted. Most fines were set at $15, he said.

The maximum penalty is $25 per offense.

"The judges were sincerely sympathetic to the plight of the village, yet they were realistic about the mitigating situations of some homeowners. An awful lot of the poeple just pleaded guilty and paid their fines," Blomquist said.

Willroth described the current water situation in the village as "serious, but not yet at a critical point.

"The pumping levels have gone down quite a bit and are continuing to drop," he said.

Police building plan review slated tonight

Preliminary designs for a new Arlington Heights police building will be reviewed today by the village board's special police-fire building committee.

The meeting will begin at 8 p.m. at the municipal building, 33 S. Arlington Heights Rd.

The proposed site for the new building is immediately east of the municipal building on the north side of Sigwalt Street.

WHO IS that masked man? He's King Tut and 55 treasures from his tomb are on display at the Field Museum. The four-month-long exhibition opens Friday and is expected to attract a million curious visitors. Tut, short for Tutankhamun, met the press at a museum preview Tuesday. (Photo by Anne Cusack)

'Cursed' Tut treasures thrill press

by KURT BAER

Ben Kozak stood like a proud new father Tuesday in the midst of King Tut's glittering treasures.

All around him, reporters, photographers and others willing to masquerade as the working press were marveling at the "Treasures of Tutankhamun" during a preview showing at Chicago's Field Museum.

True, the 55 objects taken from Tut's tomb are the real "stars" of this very special exhibition. But without Kozak, the show could not go on.

FOR THE PAST 18 months he has been wrapped up in the layout and construction of the King Tut exhibit; he designed the setting for the pharaoh's 3,300-year-old jewels and Tuesday the public in Chicago had its first look at what Kozak and the ancient Egyptians have wrought.

"Never have I involved myself in an exhibition in which so many things just kept 'mishappening.' Believe me, as far as the museum staff is concerned, there really is a Tut's curse," Kozak said.

For example, there were persistent problems in getting carpeting for the exhibit. The first batch of the custom-ordered carpet was unacceptable to the manufacturer, Bigelow, he said. and the second order ran smack up against the punishing 1977 winter.

"We had picked out a special color and weave. Bigelow had selected the wool and made up the special dyes. The next thing we knew it was snowing in Georgia where the mill is. There was not enough gas to dry the wool, no power. People couldn't get to work.

"Now I ask you, when was the last time it snowed in Georgia?"

BUT TUESDAY the carpet was on the floor; the paint was on the wall and the treasure was under glass.

The gold mask of Tutankhamun, placed on the mummy's head and shoulders, is the symbol of the exhibition and a real tour de force. It's brilliant gold features, inlaid with carnelian, lapis lazuli, colored glass and quartz, radiates wealth and majesty.

Also on display is the gilded statuette of the goddess Selket, who guarded Tutankhamun's mummified intestines; a figure of the boy-king harpooning, a small gold shrine, Tut's childhood chair and outstanding pieces of funerary jewelry.

Three Egyptian curators travel with the exhibition, Kozak said. One stays with the show continually. The Egyptians do all the packing and unpacking.

WOODEN OBJECTS, which Kozak says tend to be very unstable after 3,000 years, are kept under carefully controlled temperature and humidity.

The most fragile object is a painted wooden head of Tutankhamun said to illustrate the infant sun god at the moment of birth emerging from a blue lotus. So delicate is the finely carved and poly-chromed figurehead that museum officials Tuesday refused to allow harsh television lights to focus on it.

The exhibit is designed to bring to mind the layout of the original four-room tomb discovered by British archaeologist Howard Carter in 1922. After a descent into the tomb from an orientation room, visitors find the objects in approximately the same order and in the same chambers in which they were discovered. That was Kozak's job.

"The art of museum exhibition is a constant," he said. "But each exhibition itself is a variable. It's an education."

Museum officials expect a million visitors will come to the Treasures of Tutankhamnun from 10:30 a.m. Friday, when it opens, through Aug. 15, when the exhibit closes in Chicago to move on to New Orleans, Los Angeles, Seattle and New York.

A thousand guests an hour are expected to make their way through the chambers. But waits of four hours still are anticipated. To help manage the crowd, museum officials will issue each visitor a number when he buys his ticket, and plan to flash the number being admitted to the Tut exhibition on closed-circuit television sets located in the museum.

Payoff probe centers on Marcy

Paul Marcy

by TONI GINNETTI and STEVE BROWN

A federal grand jury is investigating the activities of Paul Marcy, secretary of the Cook County Zoning Board of Appeals, in connection with alleged payoffs for zoning changes, including one in Palatine, The Herald has learned.

Investigators have focused on Marcy's connection with zoning of land at Hicks and Baldwin roads, Palatine, on which the Reniassance Apartments, formerly Old Madrid, were built.

A federal grand jury is expected to return an indictment soon against Marcy, a powerful figure in the county Democratic organization.

SEVERAL SOURCES close to the investigation have confirmed action is imminent and that the investigation is aimed at Marcy.

Marcy could not be reached for comment Tuesday.

Marcy's alleged involvement with a payoff scheme to win approval for the development of the controversial Palatine apartment complex surfaced before during the 1975 trial of Floyd Fulle, former Cook County commissioner from Des Plaines who was convicted of extorting $69,000 from two Northwest suburban apartment developers, including Sellergren, Inc. builders of the Sellergren complex.

A source close to the inquiry confirmed that the grand jury sought information on the Sellergren complex, but he added he did not know if the probe was centering on the project.

Marcy was named by Chicago plumbing contractor William J. Adams as one of several county officials whom Adams said he paid to win approval for zoning of the project, according to Adams' testimony in the Funding denial may cut bus for elderly

Palatine Township's unwillingness to grant a request for $6,700 in additional funding to the senior citizens' council may result in cutbacks in senior citizens bus service in the township, Russell Bollinger, executive vice president of the council said Tuesday. Bollinger withdrew the funding request this week after extensive questioning by the board indicated the trustees would not agree to the allocation. Bollinger said the council will have only $13,600 for operations until the end of June. "I don't know if we're going to make it," Bollinger said. "We will have to make some adjustments. We're going to struggle along and play it by ear."

Teamsters delay job action

Teamsters union officials Tuesday said they would not initiate any job action against Palatine until after the village board takes up the union's latest request to represent public works employes. William Hogan, president of Local 714, said the union will hold off on its threatened election day job action to give officials time to consider the public works request. Last month, Hogan said the union would not rule out the possibility of staging some type of Teamster picketing on April 19, election day in Palatine. The public works request is expected to be considered during an April 25 executive session of the board. A similar request by village patrolmen was rejected by the board in January.

Powers quits police pension unit

Roger Powers, a candidate for Wheeling village trustee, has resigned from the village police pension fund to comply with the Wheeling ethics ordinance. The resignation was effective Wednesday. Powers said he submitted his resignation Tuesday because he has completed work on a pension plan started by the board. Powers, a member of the Wheeling Citizens Party, was criticized by members of the Better Environment, Service and Trust Party for his refusal to resign from the pension board. The ethics code prohibits appointed officials from taking part in elections or using the prestige of their position on behalf of a political party. Powers was named to the board in 1976.

Gambling operation broken up

by TOM JACHIMIEC

A gambling wire room operation was broken up Tuesday in Buffalo Grove when police smashed down the door of an apartment and arrested George J. Miller, 28, and charged him with syndicated gambling.

Using a 20-pound sledge hammer to gain entry to the apartment and a search warrant, police said they confiscated gambling sheets with bets totaling $40,000 to $50,000.

Police said Miller had been making book on various sporting events for several weeks from his apartment at the Stonegate Garden Apartments, 100 S. Buffalo Grove Rd., where he had been living for about a year under an alias.

"ALL IT TOOK was three swings and we got in," said Sgt. Kenneth Blanchette of the Buffalo Grove Police Dept., one of 10 policemen from four agencies in on the raid, which took place around noon.

"We were lucky, too, because he forgot to put the bars on the door in place," said Det. Donald Harion of the Chicago Police Department's vice and gambling unit. "Otherwise, we'd still be pounding on the door."

Harion said the number of bets Miller was taking "was exceptionally large." He had four telephones and two lines into his apartment, he said.

Harion said Miller probably was connected with the crime syndicate and that authorities had him under surveillance for quite some time. He said Miller was arrested March 29, 1976, at a restaurant in Wheeling and was charged with syndicated gambling.

"It's hard to determine how long he has been operating, but it has been at least several weeks in Buffalo Grove," Harion said.

HARION SAID the average size of a bet was from $200 to $1,000. Most of the bets were for sporting events: horse racing, playoff basketball games and baseball, he said.

Harion said no money was confiscated in the raid, which was a cooperative effort by Buffalo Grove, Chicago, Cook County and the Illinois Bureau of Investigation.

Local police officers who made the raid included Police Chief Harry Walsh, Investigator Gary Del Re and Blanchette.

Miller was being held in the Cook County Sheriff's police lockup in Maywood pending a bond hearing later Tuesday. In addition to the felony charge of syndicated gambling, he also was charged with accepting bets over the telephone, keeping bets and keeping a gambling house.

Prof seeks secrets in Booth diary

TERRE HAUTE, Ind. (UPI — John Wilkes Booth wasn't shot after killing Abraham Lincoln. He went to India and the escape was covered up by the government, or so theorizes Ray Neff, an associate professor at Indiana State University.

Neff, associate professor of health and safety, is convinced that following Lincoln's assassination on April 14, 1865, Booth successfully escaped and lived in India until his death in 1883.

He believes the man shot in a barn April 26, 1865, was not Booth, but James William Boyd, a turncoat Confederate secret service captain working as a detective for Sec. of War Edwin Stanton.

Neff said he recently had photographed Booth's diary in Washington and now is using infrared and other sophisticated photo devices in an attempt to recover the missing pages, covering the period of April 17-25.

He hopes the lost pages will sustain his theory of Booth's escape and a subsequent flight to India.

Neff, who has researched the assassination for 20 years, said he was concentrating on impressions made on the inside cover of the diary.

U.S. considers criminal charges against trawlers

BOSTON (UPI) — The mother ship of the Soviet fishing fleet off New England, seized offshore for alleged fisheries violations, joined another Soviet vessel under guard at the Boston Coast Guard Station Tuesday while federal officials examined evidence for possible criminal charges.

The 275-foot trawler Taras Shevchenko and the 503-foot refrigerator-transport vessel Antanas Snechkus were the first foreign ships taken into custody on suspicion of violating the 200-mile fishing limit.

The Antanas Snechkus was escorted into Boston Tuesday. Coast Guard officials charged the vessel contained about 100 tons of illegally caught fish, including once-abundant cod.

FOLLOWING A briefing by the Coast Guard, U.S. Atty. James Gabriel said Tuesday he "can only hope that I will have the information needed to make a decision by Wednesday" on whether to press charges.

The Coast Guard is taking an inventory of the fish in the Antanas Snechkus' holds and is checking its logs. Other documents found on both ships also are being examined.

"We are awaiting the results of the review on the evidence," Gabriel said. "We don't have any course of action plotted out yet.

"It's exactly like any other individual charged with a crime. If we decide to press charges, we'll file a complaint in district court and he (the master of the Soviet ship) will appear. If bail is set I assume it will be paid and he will come back at a later time for his trial."

ASKED HOW LONG the ships could be detained without charges being brought, Gabriel said "the law says for a reasonable period of time and reasonableness in this case depends on a lot of facts."

"All relevant evidence we have would be used against the Taras Schevchenko," said Lt. William Norris, Coast Guard District Legal Officer. "We are going to hold the vessel (Antanas Snechkus) this time until we complete an inventory of the cargo."

Norris declined to comment on how long that would take.

A 16-member custody crew, comprised of Coast Guardmen with automatic rifles slung over their shoulders and .45-caliber handguns hanging from their belts, was aboard the Antanas Snechkus as two tugboats settled her across the dock from the previously seized Taras Shevchenko.

The trawler was seized Saturday on direct orders of President Carter and was escorted to Boston Monday. The larger ship was boarded Easter Sunday and its cargo ordered seized on Monday.

CMDR. ALBERT Buecher, skipper of the cutter Reliance that escorted the Antanas Snechkus from 160 miles southeast of Nantucket Island, said his original recommendation was to seize the entire ship, not just a portion of the cargo.

Seized were 1.696 metric tons of cod; 93 metric tons of red fish or ocean perch, and 16.02 metric tons of river herring. A metric ton is 2,204.6 pounds or slightly more than 200 pounds heavier than the regular 2,000-pound ton.

National Marine Fisheries Service Agent Jesse L. Whitehurst, a member of the boarding party, said cod and ocean fish cannot be taken by foreign trawlers.

"As soon as they are caught they are supposed to be thrown back into the ocean," he said.

Whitehurst said the river herring catch exceeded the amount allowed under a license held by the vessel.

Carter, Dobrynin talk about arms

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Carter and Soviet Ambassador Anatoly Dobrynin had a "constructive and useful discussion" of stragegic arms limitation Tuesday while touching briefly on American seizure of Soviet fishing vessels, the White House reported.

A smiling Dobrynin, leaving the Oval Office after 40 minutes with Carter, said it was "a good meeting."

"There was a constructive and useful discussion of U.S.-Soviet relations, which included stragetic arms limitations," said Jerry Schecter, a White House press aide. "They also discussed briefly the question of Soviet fishing violations inside the 200-mile limit."

Deputy Press Sec. Rex Granum said earlier the trawler question was not considered a major topic of the meeting, which was "mutually arranged" by the President and Dobrynin.

Granum stressed the session was arranged before the fishing trawler incidents and said he did not expect Carter to dwell on the subject.

Carter said last Friday — after a meeting between Vance and Dobrynin — he would be "very eager" to change his major nuclear weapons reduction proposals if the Soviets considered them "inequitable" in the balance of nuclear might.

Both sides appeared to be moving toward a compromise after the breakdown in Moscow.

The meeting with the Soviet envoy was the last official activity of a day in which Carter put the final touches on the anti-inflation package he will outline at a 9 a.m. CDT news conference Friday. The program calls for voluntary restraints to dampen inflationary pressures.

Others forced her to plot: Columbo

Patricia Columbo told police that conspirators forced her to help plot the murders of her parents and brother, but she denied carrying out the slayings, investigators testified Tuesday.

Det. Raymond Rose of the Elk Grove Village police, and Lt. Frank Braun of the Cook County Sheriff's Police said Miss Columbo told them a conspiracy, including informant Lanyon Mitchell, 25, of Lake Villa, threatened her with death if she refused to aid them in the murder plot.

Miss Columbo, 20, and Frank DeLuca, 39, are charged with the May 4, 1976 murders of Frank, Mary and 13-year-old Michael Columbo at their home at 55 E. Brantwood Dr., Elk Grove Village.

ROSE AND BRAUN testified in Cook County Circuit Court at a pretrial hearing Tuesday. Judge R. Eugene Pincham is considering a defense motion to suppress statements given to police by Miss Columbo after her arrest May 15, 1976.

In the statements, Miss Columbo said Mitchell and others who she did not name wanted to kill her family, and told her they would kill her and DeLuca if she did not cooperate with them, the investigators said.

However, Miss Columbo said, "I don't think they did it (killed her family)," the investigators said. They said Miss Columbo told them she believed drug-crazed home invaders had murdered her family.

Miss Columbo also told police she had sexual relations with members of the conspiracy, including Mitchell, because she feared for her life and for DeLuca's, the investigators said.

DURING QUESTIONING, Miss Columbo denied knowing Mitchell, Rose said. When Rose showed her the three snapshots she allegedly gave to Mitchell to help plan the slayings, Miss Columbo denied she had ever seen the photographs, Rose said.

Rose then read to Miss Columbo the dossier on her family she allegedly gave to Mitchell, Rose said.

Rose said as he read the dossier, "She (Miss Columbo) reacted and was moving on the cot (on which she sat), I looked up at her, and she was looking past me at the door.

"I turned and saw Lanyon Mitchell looking at her through the glass (on the door), and she was looking at him," Rose said.

Miss Columbo then said, "All right, all right, I wrote it," Rose said.

MISS COLUMBO TOLD police she had been forced at gunpoint to provide Mitchell with family photographs, a floor plan of the Columbo home and a handwritten dossier on the family, Rose said.

Pincham Tuesday also rejected a motion by Miss Columbo's attorneys asking that he order prosecutors to return 15 pornographic snapshots of Miss Columbo and DeLuca. Police confiscated the snapshots in a May 15 search of the apartment Miss Columbo and DeLuca shared in Lombard because they believed one picture was of Mitchell. Defense lawyers contended the picture were illegally seized.

Braun said Miss Columbo told police some of the snapshots had been sent to a "swinger-type" magazine that offers to arrange mate-swapping for readers.

Carter commutes Liddy sentence

a fraction of that. Only Ehrlichman has gone to prison; the others have appealed their convictions.

Liddy has served more time in jail than any other Watergate figure.

The last of the original seven Watergate burglars behind bars, Liddy also was sentenced to three years in jail for leading the White House "plumbers" into the office of Dr. Lewis Fielding, the psychiatrist for Dr. Daniel Ellsberg, and 18 months for contempt for refusing to testify before a grand jury.

All of the other Watergate characters — from Liddy's Cuban-American co-burglars right up to Nixon — told their story in one way or another. But Liddy kept what he considered a code of honor and remained silent.

This angered Judge John Sirica, who gave Liddy a longer term than his fellow burglars, and refused earlier to commute his sentence to time served.

Others who gave testimony in court and before the Senate Watergate committee told bizarre tales about Liddy.

HE WAS THE mastermind of the conspiracy who shredded $100 bills to cover his tracks and plotted to supply call girls to delegates at the Democratic National Convention.

He went to Mitchell with a $1 million plan for "dirty tricks" against Nixon's opponents and enemies. The plan later was scaled down to $250,000 and the Watergate cover-up trial jury concluded Mitchell approved the Liddy plan.

The mustachioed former FBI agent, who had become counsel for the Nixon reelection committee, proposed wiretapping, surveillance and photographing documents — all crimes uncovered in the Watergate inquiry. His more bizarre proposals — abducting radical demonstrators who might disrupt the GOP convention and the call girls for Democrats — apparently were not carried out.

Carter signed the order at 11 a.m. on the recommendation of Atty. Gen. Griffin Bell. Liddy had petitioned for commutation Sept. 6, 1976, but President Gerald Ford did not act.

WHITE HOUSE counsel Robert Lipshutz met Feb. 11 with Mrs. Liddy, her Boston attorney, George Higgens, and James Gavin, chairman of the Liddy Neighborhood Committee seeking his release.

Granum said the White House role in the process was "very limited" and that the Justice Department had been reviewing the case. He said the White House informed Liddy of the decision through his attorney.

Under the President's action, Liddy's $40,000 fine remains in effect. Liddy "would still be required to pay the fine or a portion of it," Granum said.

He noted Liddy drew a considerably heavier punishment than others.

Liddy is serving in Allenwood, Pa., federal prison, and his release is subject to approval by the U.S. Parole Board.

Marcy named in zoning payoff probe by U.S.

1975 trial of Fulle.

ADAMS, ACTING for Sellergren, testified during Fulle's trial that he paid Marcy $55,000 in $100 bills in exchange for his support of the project.

Secret federal grand jury testimony taken in February, 1975 and obtained by The Herald revealed Adams met with Marcy five times between August, 1969 and January, 1970.

During a meeting in September, 1969, Adams asked Marcy what was necessary to get the zoning change approved, according to grand jury testimony.

"Is there some way we can do this? Will money do it? Do you want money? Sellergren is willing to pay for it. He doesn't want something for nothing," Adams told the grand jury.

Adams testified Marcy responded, "What do you mean?"

"I MEAN 40,000 big reasons," Adams said. He added that Marcy sneered and Adams quickly upped the bribe offer to $55,000.

The transcript of the testimony adds "Marcy smiled and said 'I'll do my very best to get it to the zoning board."

Adams told the grand jury, under questioning by Assistant U.S. Atty. Howard Hoffmann, that he gave Marcy a brown manilla envelope containing $40,000 in Marcy's Civic Center office in January, 1970.

Adams testified that he kept $15,000 from the payment and gave another $7,500 payoff to another man involved in the scheme.

Adams' testimony was a key to the government's case against Fulle, who is now serving a five-year prison term for his part in the payoff scheme.

ADAMS COULD NOT be reached for comment Tuesday.

At the time of Fulle's indictment in February, 1975, two other county officials, including the late county Comr. Charles Bonk also were indicted for extortion and income tax evasion. Marcy, however, was never named.

Bonk was subsequently acquitted of the charges.

During Adams' testimony in the Fulle trial, Hoffmann objected to the naming of Marcy, however the objection was dropped when attorneys for Fulle said Marcy was among the list of subpoenaed defense witnesses. Marcy did not testify.

The controversial Sellergren project drew objections from Palatine officials and village homeowners, but the project was later annexed by the village after the county gave approval for its construction.

Northrup groundbreaking brings comments

Thompson tells business plan

by STEVE BROWN

Balancing the state budget without raising taxes is an "absolute necessity" if Illinois wants to keep businesses from leaving and create jobs, Gov. James R. Thompson said Tuesday.

During groundbreaking ceremonies for the $2.5 million expansion of the Northrup Defense System Division in Rolling Meadows, Thompson outlined his position on creating new jobs and keeping industry from leaving the state.

"It makes no sense at all for a governor to create jobs with his right hand after he has destroyed them with his left," Thompson told company officials, local dignitaries and 900 workers on the site of the 90,000 square foot addition at 600 Hicks Rd.

THE NEW FACILITY is expected to provide 500 jobs in Rolling Meadows and will create an additional 1,000 positions, with subcontracters and other companies that service the defense contractor. Construction will be completed early next year.

"In the final analysis, only you in the private sector can do that job. Our job in government is to assist you where we can, and even more importantly to refrain from hurting you where we can possibly avoid it."

The governor kept his speech largely to philosophical tones and avoided offering specific proposals to improve the state's business climae. Some business leaders have complained that climate is forcing businesses out of the state.

Thompson used one of the historic political campaign buttons he has taken to wearing to spell out his thoughts on government. The button quoted the late President Theodore Roosevelt citing the themes of employment, sound money, good markets and a 'full dinner bucket."

"Nobody can argue with that," Thompson said, holding the button high for the crowd to see.

THE GOVERNOR described in his priority programs in education, crime prevention and transportation as elements that will foster strong business climate.

"Higher taxes, excess paperwork, over-regulation and many other areas of governmental activity contain an enormous potential to harm an individual business or industry, and whenever we hurt business, we hurt people," Thompson said.

The governor said some believe the interest of the people and business are unrelated and antagonistic.

"I certainly don't hold that view. I've said on a number of occasions that corporations are people, too . . . and I don't reserve that statement for groundbreaking ceremonies," he said.

GOV. JAMES R. Thompson took time to sign a few autographs after participating in his first official groundbreaking at the Northrop Corp. plant expansion, 600 Hicks Rd., Rolling Meadows, Tuesday.

Multiyear license tags by '79: Dixon

Sec. of State Alan J. Dixon was speechless Tuesday but scribbled on a blackboard that Illinois will have multiyear license plates by 1979. A severe case of laryngitis and strict doctor's orders not to talk forced Dixon to use gestures, a blackboard and whispers to answer questions during a "listen-in" session attended mostly by senior citizens. Dixon said the state Senate should pass the license plate bill by May 1, and the multiyear plates would save the state $6 million.

State police cars to get CBs

All state police cars will be equipped with Citizens' Band radios by July, the Dept. of General Services has announced. Illinois will be the first state to install the CB's in patrol cars as part of the nationwide National Emergency Aid Radio system, the department said Tuesday.

Rosalynn Carter in area Tuesday

First Lady Rosalynn Carter will be in Chicago next Tuesday to participate in the opening meeting of the President's Commission on Mental Health, the White House announced Tuesday. A spokesman said Mrs. Carter also will tour a center for mental retardation in the Chicago area.

Details of the visit were still being worked out. Next Tuesday is the day Chicago residents vote in a special primary to pick the Democratic candidate and Republican candidates for mayor.

Police sniper kills himself

A Vietnam veteran with a police record of nothing more serious than traffic violations fired several shots at the Homewood police station Tuesday, and then shot himself to death. Police were investigating what prompted the sniping attack by James D. Donohue, 24, of the southern suburb. Donahue's body was found in the backyard of a home about two blocks from the police station. He had shot himself in the mouth with a high-powered hunting rifle, authorities said.

Patrolman Arnold Becker was driving near the police station early Tuesday when he spotted Donahue pulling a rifle from a van parked across the street. As Becker radioed for help, Donahue fired five shots at the squad car, narrowly missing the officer. The sniper fired several more shots at the station. Police from surrounding communities assisted in a massive search for Donahue. His body was found about two hours after the incident.

Suburban road funds 'unresolved'

Money for suburban road projects remains one of the unresolved points of negotiations over the release of $1.5 billion in federal funds earmarked for the controversial Crosstown Expressway. Chicago and state negotiators have been meeting privately since March 10 in an effort to unfreeze the funds that have been set aside for the long delayed expressway project. Gov. James R. Thompson said Tuesday the talks have gotten "down to the nitty gritty."

Thompson and outgoing Illinois Dept. of Transportation Sec. Langhorne Bond both indicated a willingness to negotiate the deadlock on the Crosstown Expressway, which had been blocked by former Gov. Daniel Walker. Bond and the governor said they wanted a scaled down expressway plan and would use the remaining funds for other road work, including road and bridge improvements in the suburbs and the collar counties surrounding Chicago. Thompson declined to offer any predictions on how much longer the negotiations, which involve his top aide, Deputy Gov. James Fletcher, and Marshall Suloway, Chicago commissioner of public works, might take.

Operator wants to know why oil firms push gasoline

RICHARD GRZEBIENIAK, who has operated a Standard station for six years at the corner of Arlington Heights and Algonquin roads, Arlington Heights, has sent telegrams to the U.S. senators from Illinois asking how President Carter's energy conservation plans will work when major oil companies are constantly pushing local dealers to sell more gas.

by BILL HILL

The contradictions of life are beginning to confuse Richard Grzebieniak, a Standard Oil service station operator in Arlington Heights.

President Carter is planning to announce later this month proposals for conserving energy, including gasoline consumption, yet the major oil compaies are constantly telling Grzebieniak and other area gasoline dealers to lower their gas prices and sell more.

And even that advice isn't consistent, Grzebieniak said.

MONDAY HE WAS told again by the area representative from Standard Oil that he should lower his pump prices. Then Tuesday morning Grzebieniak was informed Standard Oil was increasing its base price for gasoline one cent a gallon, effective immediately.

The paradox prompted him to send telegrams to Illinois' U.S. Senators Charles Percy and Adlai Stevenson III. Another will be sent to Carter, Grzebieniak said.

The telegrams read: "I would like to know why President Carter and the federal government are asking for gas and oil conservation when the major oil companies are pushing for the dealers to pump more gas and lower their prices."

"Carter is asking us to conserve and they're coercing us into pumping more gas and giving it away," said Grzebieniak, who operates Nursery Standard at the corner of Arlington Heights and Algonquin roads.

HE PREDICTS CARTER'S conservation plans will have no effect, especially if there isn't cooperation from the major oil companies.

"It's a proven fact you can charge whatever you want. The public is going to buy it," Grzebieniak said.

But the oil companies only are interested in selling more gasoline, an attitude which hurts stations which also do repair and other service work, Grzebieniak said.

"To maintain a viable service station with service equipment you have to have an adequate price margin," he said. "But the majors are eliminating stations with service equipment. They have given up on servicing the consumer."

Grzebieniak said he now pays about 60 cents a gallon for regular gas and sells it at 70.9 cents. That price margin is necessary because of the extra costs of operating a service station and the high costs of labor and utilities, he said.

A Standard Oil representative, Carlton Adams, said Tuesday he doubted any territory manager for the oil company would tell dealers to lower gas prices.

"FIRST OF ALL, we are forbidden by federal law from telling a dealer what to do. We can only suggest," Adams said.

"I find it hard to believe a territory manager will walk into a guy and say 'We don't think you're selling enough, lower your prices.' We certainly don't do that by company sanction," he said.

As far as urging dealers to sell more gas, the company is only trying to maintain its share of the market, Adams said.

"If we don't sell it someone else will. We want to remain competitive," he said.

Several other Standard Oil dealers confirmed Tuesday there has been pressure to lower their gas prices, but most of them did not consider it unusual.

"THEY ALWAYS suggest things like that. They watch out for themselves," said Dave Kolze, owner of the K and H Super Service Station, 1134 Prairie St., Des Plaines.

Dale Jewell, owner of Dale's Standard, Northwest Highway and Baldwin Road, Palatine, said he didn't get any pressure Tuesday when the one cent increase was announced, but he has in the past.

WORKERS HAVE resumed construction of the 87-acre Arlington Lakes Golf Course at the old Nike Base site in Arlington Heights. The winter feeze halted work for three months but did not alter the opening date, scheduled for the summer of 1978.

Few turn out for township town meetings

Town meetings, when citizens would turn out to vote and check up on their local officials, aren't what they used to be.

At Elk Grove and Wheeling townships' annual meetings Tuesday night only a handful of citizens showed up to hear reports on how their tax money had been spent the past year.

"I've attended most meetings for the past five years," said Dominic Panunzio of Wheeling. He said he came to the Wheeling Township meeting because, "I like to keep tabs with what's going on. When it comes to voting I want to be there. I don't want to be told by somebody else."

PANUNZIO WAS one of about six residents present to hear the yearly report in the new township building at 1616 N. Arlington Heights Rd.

The other two dozen persons in the meeting hall either were giving reports or were township officials.

At Elk Grove Township Hall, 2400 S. Arlington Heights Rd., resident Patricia Jackson of Arlington Heights was one of the few citizens who did not attend to present a report.

"I COME BECAUSE I care what the township does and this is one way of finding out what's going on," she said. 'I moved out of the township and five years ago moved back in and was glad to do so."

250 fires blazing in dry Minnesota

Nearly 250 fires burned 51,000 acres of dry Minnesota forest and grassland Tuesday and Gov. Rudy Perpich said most of them were started by people. "Cut it out," the governor said. "Cut out this irresponsible act or there will be nothing left of Minnesota by the end of the summer." The fires blazed in a mid-April heat wave which zoomed temperatures to record marks from southern Michigan into the mid-Atlantic coastal states.

Minnesota authorities said some north woods fires were started by accident — discarded cigarets or burning rubbish — and others by arson. "The arson is sick," said Gov. Perpich's aide, Bob Aronson. "It puts people's lives in danger. It doesn't make any sense." A state official said, "Kids may be starting some of the fires. They just stop along a country road and set fire to some grass. In normal years such a fire would burn only a few acres, but in a drought time like this it can lead to a major fire." The state Department of Natural Resources said all major fires were contained but "not under control by any means." Three hundred National Guardsmen helped fight the fires.

Patty's lawyers going to court

Patricia Hearst's attorneys said they will offer oral arguments Wednesday asking a federal appellate court in San Francisco to throw out her bank robbery conviction on grounds her trial judge — now dead — made crucial errors. Attorney F. Lee Bailey said Tuesday he will make an oral presentation to the three-judge 9th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeal. Miss Hearst will not be in court. The 23-year-old newspaper heiress, free on $1.25 million bail, was sentenced Sept. 24 to seven years for robbing a San Francisco bank with the terrorist Symbionese Liberation Army that had kidnaped her Her lawyer contend that U.S. District Judge Oliver J. Carter, who died of a heart attack three months after her trial, should not have admitted evidence about a crime spree after the bank robbery in which she fired two machine guns to protect SLA members William and Emily Harris.

Charge 5 in bogus check case

Five men and a woman were charged in New York Tuesday with taking part in a scheme to print and pass $2 million in counterfeit bank checks in various parts of the United States and Canada. A 29-count federal indictment alleged the ring sold over $1 million dollars in phony checks and purchased with others expensive automobiles, gold coins and cameras for resale.

The alleged ringleader was identified as Isiah Crutch, 31, now serving a three-year prison sentence.

Defendant Louis Bas, a Brooklyn printer, was accused of printing the counterfeit checks between January and November 1975. Bas allegedly duplicated the checks of Barclay's Bank, Marine Midland, Manufacturers Hanover Trust Co., Bankers Trust Co. and the First National Bank of Chicago.

Rule Rabin can't leave office

Israel's attorney general ruled Tuesday Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin cannot leave office despite a political scandal in which prosecutors are preparing to bring his wife to trial. Attorney General Aharon Sarak said Rabin cannot quit because there is no precedent for the resignation of a caretaker prime minister. Rabin resigned as prime minister last December and was named caretaker until the May 17 election. Even if Rabin takes a leave of absence until the balloting he will still be legally responsible for the duties constitutionally given to him when he took office in June 1974, Sarak's opinion said. There was no immediate comment from Rabin.

France denies airlifting troops

Zaire said Tuesday French planes were flying Moroccan troops to invaded Shaba Province. French President Valery Giscard d'Estaing, however, said in Paris that only supplies — not men — were being airlifted. Zaire's National Orientation Minister, Mbunze Nsomi Lebwanabi, also said Egypt had sent "aid in men" to help President Mobutu Sese Seko's regime fight an invasion force from Angola and The Sudan warned that the invasion was a threat to its security.

Mobutu also asked Nigeria, which offered to mediate in the conflict, to send neutral observers to verify his claims of Angolan, Cuban and Soviet involvement in the invasion. Lebwanabi said "aid in men" had also been provided by Egypt, but did not specify whether the men were soldiers.

15 killed in Lebanon fighting

Palestinian guerrillas captured a Christian-held village near the Israeli border in fighting that killed at least 15 persons and shattered a new Syrian peace initiative, reports from Beirut said Tuesday. The reports said clashes broke out on fronts all across the narrow strip north of the Israeli border. The town of Deir Mimas, less than two miles from the frontier, fell to the Palestinians in an overnight attack in which pro-Syrian Saiqa guerrillas played a major role. Palestinian officials in Beirut confirmed heavy fighting had broken out in the area but made no mention of the capture of Deir Mimas.

Jordan's Hussein plans U.S. visit April 25-26

WASHINGTON (UPI) — King Hussein of Jordan will visit President Carter in two weeks in a continuation of Carter's consultations with Middle East leaders, the White House announced Tuesday.

Presidential spokesmen said Hussein, following Egypt's President Anwar Sadat and Israel's Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin to Washington, will pay an official visit April 25-26.

"They will discuss fully all issues connected with the search for a just and durable settlement of the Middle East conflict," said a brief White House statement.

"The President welcomes this opportunity to establish personal contact with his majesty."

Hussein's role in Middle East relationships is of particular interest to the United States, because of his pro-Western record and the possibility he could provide a compromise solution to the Palestinian homeland problem.

U.S. officials have suggested the Palestinian Liberation Organization might gain entree to any resumed Middle East peace talks as part of the Jordanian delegation.

home loans in the last few months.

Bensinger said the only way to control the outward flow of money for home loans is by adjusting interest rates and service charges.

"If we continued with the old rates we'd lose control," he said. "Money will continue to be available, but it will cost more which should cut the demand somewhat."

Bensinger said in addition to raising interest rates and the service charge, First Federal has stopped making 95 per cent loans (5 per cent down payment).

"OUR CUSTOMERS now will have to put down at least 10 per cent," he said.

Leonard J. Augustyniak, Talman Federal's vice president in charge of home lending, said Talman raised interest rates because they want to ensure that savings deposits stay even with home loans.

"We were concerned that with the high demand for loans, savings would not keep up and we would be forced to borrow to meet the loans that already have been approved," he said.

John Prah, branch manager of one of Cragin Federal's Schaumburg locations, said savings deposits have been coming in steadily, but officials want to make sure the savings and loans can meet all of its loan obligations.

CHESTER OSADA, president of Mount Prospect Federal Savings and Loan Assn., said the loan committee there is reviewing the interest rate structure to determine if there should be an increase.

Osada predicts that interest rates will climb to 9 per cent for 80 per cent home loans in the months ahead.

China No. 2 man greets U.S. visitors

HONG KONG (UPI) — China's No. 2 leader wished President Carter's son, Chip, a "Happy Birthday" Tuesday and greeted the first U.S. Congressional delegation to visit the country since Carter's inauguration.

Vice Premier Li Hsien-Nien saw Chip on his 27th birthday.

"Happy Birthday," he told the President's son. "According to Chinese custom, you may now get married."

LI, THE SECOND ranking man in the Chinese government, was referring to China's birth control program which discourages marriage for men under 27. Apparently unknown to him, Chip is married, but his wife Caron is not along on the trip.

The President's son called on Li along with a Congressional delegation led by U.S. Sen. Richard Schweiker, R-Penn., and U.S. Rep. John Brademas, D-Ind. The two later spoke briefly to newsmen and Peking sources telephoned their remarks to Hong Kong.

The congressmen described an earlier meeting with Li at a Monday luncheon with Foreign Minister Huang Hua as "very warm." But they gave few details about the substance of their talks.

Peking sources described the Americans as "extremely resistive" to giving details of their discussions with the Chinese leaders.

THEIR THREE-HOUR luncheon with Huang reportedly dealt mainly with "bilateral issues." The meeting with Li lasted about 90 minutes and apparently was largely devoted to talks about Sino-Soviet relations and arms control.

Li has repeatedly warned the united States not to trust the Soviets to honor any arms agreements, claiming they are using detente as a cover to gain military superiority. Presumably he made the same point in Tuesday's talks with the congressman.

Brademas said there had been a few surprises in Chinese foreign policy

Peking sources said it was likely views but did not elaborate.

Peking sources said it was likely Mua Kuo-Feng, the chairman of the Chinese Communist Party and premier, would receive the group before it leaves for a visit to Shanghai and Mangchow in east China Thursday. The delegation is due back in Washington Sunday.

Responsibility.

Around here, that's more than just a word. It's the stuff our business is made of. A bank must be responsible, not only to its customers, but to its community. It must be responsible for the financial well being of its community. By reinvesting in the area, to the tune of $50 million in loans, First Arlington has taken its rightful place as a business leader in Arlington Heights. The bank's new management is aware of its place and has vowed to improve it. Our stated policy is to take on even greater responsibility for the healthy growth of this community. It's a challenge we eagerly accept, as we look forward to an exciting future for Arlington Heights and for the bank.

Miami's unhappy Gay flap

Jim Bishop

There is a flap in Miami. The question is whether the sun-struck citizens should be permitted to discriminate against homosexuals. The Dade County Commission says no.

The Dade County Commission now wishes it was dead. It passed the ordinance in January. Anita Bryant, that juicy orange, came flying out of the citrus groves screaming: "Save Our Children." With rare animadversion, the lovely lady appeared to relate any fairness to Gays with a sexual assault on schoolchildren.

She demanded that the county rescind the law, in effect allowing all well-muscled heterosexuals to gad about kicking Gays. Within a few days, nothing made sense. Everyone was shouting. The lawmakers reverted to "No comment."

MS. BRYANT IS a pious one. She writes holy books like "Light My Candle." She is also Mrs. Robert Green, mother of four growing children. Apparently she saw some vague menace to kids if Miami stopped discrimination.

"Save Our Children" drew up a petition to cancel the ordinance. A flap anywhere is fruitless unless a lot of people become involved. Over 60,000 signed her petition. That's a lot of votes.

Mayor Steve Clark, a certified heterosexual, began to hide under his desk. The homosexuals sulked in Gay bars. Dade County, which is Miami with a couple of dozen extra municipal sewers thrown in, staged rallies.

Some pro. Some con. Hysteria flamed to fury. Men began to accuse each other. It was dangerous to wear cologne. The Board of Elections said that a referendum in late spring would cost the taxpayers $400,000.

THE BOARD OF Elections failed to ask the little kiddies if they had been molested lately. Nor did it occur to anyone that restoring discrimination would not spare an endangered child.

The Attorney General of Florida got into the act by declaring, somewhat gratuitously, that homosexual acts are against the law. No one asked Ms. Bryant the scientific sources of her dreadful prophecy.

The great body of psychiatric opinion is that 4 per cent of males and 3 per cent of females are exclusively homosexual. They are not born that way. Science claims that there are many gradations of sexuality, from the extremes of macho men and frilly females to those who aren't quite heterosexual and not homosexual either.

THIRTY-SEVEN per cent of all men concede that they have had one overt homosexual adventure in their lives. About 28 per cent of women admit to one lesbian affair. Most of these reset their courses toward marriage, family and forgetfulness.

Gays seek their own. Only a psychopath will seek children. Those rare birds belong in cages. Most psychiatrists do not believe that anyone can make a homosexual of a basically heterosexual child. "The development of homosexuality is always a pathological consequence of fears of heterosexual functioning that have been produced by unfavorable life experiences."

We look in the home — not the school — for dominant mothers and passive fathers. Doctors Freedman, Kaplan and Sadock, in "Modern Synopsis of Psychiatry II," hammer home the true danger:

"The most prevalent theory concerning the cause of homosexuality attributes it to a pathogenic family background. The most significant factor in the genesis of homosexuality is a parental constellation of a detached, hostile father and a close-binding, seductive mother who dominates and minimizes her husband . . ."

IN THE MIAMI Herald, Charles Whited, author and columnist, stuck his neck out in favor of civil rights for Gays. It is an index of how deep the fear of homosexuality cuts when Whited, as square a family man as I know, had his manhood challenged.

"At dinner one night," he wrote, "an acquaintance quipped: 'My friends are asking if Charley Whited is a fag.'" I don't know why he had to abase himself by responding to such cheap bait, but he wrote: "The answer is no."

Among my friends, the only people who are venomous on this subject are those who are afraid it is contagious . . .

The way we see it

We endorse for April 19

Following are our endorsements for village elections on April 19:

Palatine

Two dedicated public officials are competing for the post of village president in Palatine.

The choice between the two is difficult, primarily because both seem genuinely concerned about the future of the village.

Of the two, we endorse ROBERT J. GUSS, the head of the Republican Party ticket.

Our endorsement of a Republican in the village election is a departure from four years ago when we said we felt the GOP candidates would owe more allegiance to national party ideology than to the community.

During the past four years, however, the Republicans on the village board have proven that they are able to go beyond party labels in running village government.

During that period, Guss has been an active and conscientious trustee. He has been a leader in flood control planning, was instrumental in writing the downtown redevelopment ordinance and has helped village officials gain tighter control over development.

As head of his slate, Guss has proposed a comprehensive platform for Palatine's future, while the Citizens Party of Palatine, the rival group, has been regrettably vague on plans.

Guss's weakness as a candidate — and possible weakness as village president — is his temper. We hope he learns to listen to others and keep an open mind on issues as the village leader.

For the three trustee posts, we endorse incumbents JAMES L. SHAW and RICHARD FONTE and newcomer DONNA KAMINSKI, all Republicans.

Shaw and Fonte have both been energetic and hard working trustees.

Shaw has been called the "heart of the board." He has always considered the human side of issues first when rendering a decision. He has taken steps to control vandalism in the village and helped draft the solicitation and marijuana ordinances.

Fonte is young, articulate and knowledgeable. During the past four years he has drafted ethics and land trust disclosure ordinances and also chaired the administration, finance and legislation committee.

Mrs. Kaminski is a knowledgeable newcomer and appears to have the capability to understand complex problems that would come before the board.

For village clerk we find both Carol Bracci, a Republican, and Judy Nelson, the CPP candidate, qualified.

Rolling Meadows

With this election, the city government of Rolling Meadows enters a new era — the era in which a city manager will take over duties previously performed by the mayor.

In choosing aldermen, voters should be aware of the importance of electing a city council composed of persons who understand and believe in the new system.

As the transition to the new system proceeds, there will be times when the elected officials and the new manager are at odds. That will not be a problem if the aldermen understand the role of the professional in administering the city while the council sets policy.

With this consideration in mind, we endorse:

—In the First Ward: LELAND (BUD) GIBBS, a member of the Palatine Twp. Dist. 15 Board of Education who has promised to resign that post if elected to the council. As a school board member, Gibbs has been an able and intelligent official. His experience on the school board should be a valuable to him on the council.

—In the Second Ward: Incumbent THOMAS WALDRON, an 18-year veteran of the council. Waldron has served his ward capably over the years and can be expected to continue to do so.

—In the Third Ward: LORRAINE GODAWA, the only candidate whose name will appear on the ballot. Mrs. Godawa has waged an active campaign even before the write-in challenge to her candidacy surfaced. She has indicated her willingness to work with the new manager.

—In the Fourth Ward: RONALD JOHNSON, a medical supply salesman. Johnson has studied the city's pay program and developed a thorough understanding of it. He has the abilities to make a good alderman.

—In the Fifth Ward: Incumbent FREDERICK JACOBSON, one of the aldermen who pushed hardest for the city manager system. He has been a good alderman and has the experience to continue to serve the city well.

Mt. Prospect

For years, Mount Prospect village government has been troubled by highly politicized infighting among elected officials.

This year's campaign for village president has been a continuation of that kind of infighting, at least as far as the two village trustees who are running for mayor are concerned.

Despite the charges, countercharges and mud-slinging that have characterized this campaign, one candidate has retained dignity while discussing the issues that are important to citizens in an intelligent, low-key way.

That candidate is CAROLYN KRAUSE. She is the candidate who wins our endorsement.

Mrs. Krause, an attorney and member of the village's zoning board, has called for fiscal responsibility and zero-based budgeting. She has exhibited a genuine concern for the public and has not been part of the bitter personality battles which have surfaced in Mount Prospect for years.

Of the other two candidates, one, Edward B. Rhea Jr., is qualified by experience and expertise to serve as village president, but his sometimes abrasive personality makes him a second choice to Mrs. Krause.

For village trustee, we endorse incumbents LEO FLOROS and ERROL F. RICHARDSON and newcomer NORMA MURAUSKIS. Floros has been a hard-working and outspoken board member. Richardson has been capable and well liked as a trustee.

Mrs. Murauskis, the prime mover in the village's local blood drive program, has been a regular at village board meetings and is knowledgeable about community problems.

'Editorial overkill' in night meat editorial

With regard to your "The Way We See It" column of March 26 on Berwyn's meat sale law, I would like to lodge these comments.

The city of Berwyn should clean up its own city offices first. The problems of the past few years in this city regarding the elected officials, the city workers, etc. has bordered on ridiculous.

Your phrase "stranglehold on the buying public" is an example of editorial overkill.

The reason you can't buy meat after 6 p.m. is because the chain stores will not pay to have it. The contract calls for overtime pay.

Everyone can buy meat sometime during the six day, 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. working week.

If no butcher is on hand to preside over the counter sales and give some customer service, how well will the public really be served.

The fact that at some point in time butchers gave up something to get the after 6 p.m. pay increase escapes your argument. Should not they be compensated?

It is easy for you to take this attitude in your column since it "espouses" the will of the people but I wonder how anxious you or the customers would be to give up something you earned and not get paid for your extra work time.

I think this union fight will soon give way to public pressure such as your column. It's a shame. Someone will be losing an earned right and benefit. You will still go home at 4 p.m. and clap your hands in support of your newest union demands.

The public interest could be much better served by you and your paper in so many more important areas than your meddling in the matters of a union, its members and the large chains who support you and the paper with giant ads.

The lighter side

Saccharin and some hedonistic rats

by DICK WEST

WASHINGTON (UPI) — All along I've had a feeling there was something incongruous about the laboratory tests that led to the proposed ban on saccharin.

But I couldn't put my finger on what was amiss until I came across a press release from the Citizens for Saccharin Committee. Then it all came clear.

The reason the tests seemed off base to us Americans is because they were conducted with Canadian rats.

AS THE COMMITTEE pointed out, "Canadian rats are not the same as American rats.

"Rats are affected by climatic conditions, different physical characteristics (depending where and how they live), different life styles, hair type, teeth structure and eat different kinds of garbage and other edibles.

"So any rat tests should be made on American rats conducted by United States scientists."

LET US NOT succumb to blind patriotism in this matter. The committee did not say, and I certainly am not suggesting, that American rats are necessarily better than Canadian rats.

I'm sure Canadian rats are okay — in their place. Canadian rats probably suit Canadians just fine, and they're entitled.

Nevertheless, without getting into the question of national rodent superiority, there's no blinking away the differences cited by the committee.

I was particularly struck by the reference to different life styles.

AMERICAN RATS, as we know, are fundamentally homebodies. Hearth and family mean a lot to them. Steadiness, dependability, moderation — those are words that spring to mind when we think of American rats.

Canadian rats, on the other hand, tend to be rather frivolous. Scurrying about at all hours of the night. Magnetized by the bright lights. Letting tomorrow take care of itself. That sort of thing.

I daresay the average Canadian rat is basically just as robust a specimen as his American counterpart — when he is in tiptop shape.

IT COULD WELL be, however, that hedonistic dissipation has rendered Canadian rats more susceptible to possible carcinogens in saccharin than American rats would be.

Then there is the question of diet.

It is doubtful that Canadian garbage contains anywhere near as much saccharin as American garbage. Thus Canadian rats would not have had opportunities to build up immunities or natural resistance to any harmful ingredients in the sugar substitute.

To repeat, I have nothing whatsoever against Canadian rats. If I were a Canadian, I'm sure I would feel wary toward any substance that produced adverse reactions in Canadian rats.

But when American interests are involved, it is not being unduly jingoistic to ask, "What's wrong with using good ol' American rats?"

"Where do they keep the famous pork barrel?"

Corporate advertising assumes air of sophistication to 'sell' the public

NEW YORK (UPI) — In recent years big business has been worried about its public image and at International Telephone & Telegraph — one of the biggest — they think they are turning the tide.

Major opinion polls over the past 18 months have shown a considerable decline of public confidence in the American economic system. More than two-thirds of the nation, for instance, blamed business prices and profits for inflation rather than government spending or even price increases by Arab oil producers.

"Clearly, American business has a major educational job on its hands," is the opinion of John L. Lowden, deputy director of corporate advertising for ITT.

AT LEAST PART of the answer, according to ITT and several other business giants, is increasing sophistication in corporate advertising as distinct from product advertising.

ITT's corporate advertising theme is "The best ideas are the ideas that help people." Over at Union Carbide the message plugged in television advertising is "Today, something we do will touch your life." The Bell telephone system proclaims: "We're working harder to serve you better."

In the dim and distant past, corporate advertising often would be just an aerial picture of the factory overlaid with a small oval picture of the boss.

"That was just ego gratification," Lowden said in an interview. "Corporate advertising today talks with a more personal, friendlier voice."

Obviously this involves a company putting its best foot forward, accentuating the positive and in most cases just ignoring the negative.

"THE BENEFITS of the free enterprise system is a powerful and important story," Lowden said. "But it's an abstract story and it's not enough. Increasingly, people want to know 'What's in it for me.' There's a widespread belief that only the rich really benefit when business profits are good, whereas only the poor and middle class suffer when profits are bad.

"The products and services developed by our individual companies are improving the quality of American life," he said.

That's the story ITT has been trying to tell, according to Lowden. In his view it's been successful.

"There was a time, not too long ago, when corporate advertising was referred to as 'a grope in the dark for a black sock.' But thanks to modern research techniques we can now determine just how effective our messages are."

According to ITT's own figures, there have been increases of up to 32 percentage points since 1974 on those aspects of corporate image the company considers important.

THE PERCENTAGE of consumers who believe ITT is a leader in technology, for instance, rose from 49 per cent in January, 1974, to 81 per cent in October, 1976, the ITT figures indicate.

Consumer belief that ITT is reliable rose from 48 per cent to 73 per cent in the same period. At the same time, the belief that ITT had a questionable connection with government and-or politics fell from 63 per cent to 45 per cent.

And that's why it is estimated corporate advertising expenditure by American companies, which came to more than $300 million last year, will climb to between $550 and $660 million in the next 10 years.

Textile workers plan protest today

While their leaders prepared to meet with President Carter, as many as 500,000 members of the nation's two big clothing and textile unions planned a one-day nationwide walkout today to protest growing import competition. The work stoppage, combined with rallies and marches, was designed to convince Carter and Congress to protect domestic jobs by negotiating tighter restrictions on imported clothes.

Organized by the Amalgamated Clothing and Textile Workers union and the International Ladies Garment Workers, the campaign will include advertisements in many big city newspapers declaring domestic clothing makers are "an imperiled species." In many cities across the country, union members invited members of Congress and other public officials to attend lunch-hour rallies. Union officials estimated some 500,000 persons would be involved.

Cosmetic label bill to take effect

A list of ingredients will be required on the labels of all lipstick, shampoo and other cosmetics effective Friday, the Food and Drug Administration announced Tuesday. A spokesman said the requirement is aimed at helping consumers make comparisons among brands produced by the $6-billion-a-year cosmetic and toiletry industry, and at identifying substances to which the buyer may be allergic or sensitive.

The rule had been scheduled to go into effect Nov. 30, but was held up because of a lawsuit by the Independent Cosmetic Manufacturers and Distributors, a trade association. Under appeal, the U.S. Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia upheld the regulation, clearing the way for it to take effect.

Drought program reopened

Improved water prospects led Agriculture Sec. Bob Bergland to reopen the government's crop insurance program Tuesday to most farmers in nine drought-stricken states. Bergland also launched a liberalized emergency drought credit program which will enable some farmers in 28 states to get emergency loans immediately instead of waiting until late summer or fall to calculate their losses. Officials said they did not have available a breakdown of the more than 350 counties affected. But they said all previously "closed" counties now were fully open in Illinois, Iowa, Minnesota, Missouri, Nebraska, North Dakota, South Dakota and Nebraska, and all but 12 counties were open in Kansas.

Merchants to hear Thompson

Gov. James R. Thompson will be the speaker at the Illinois Retail Merchants Assn. annual luncheon Thursday at Nordic Hills, Itasca. The IRMA meeting will feature discussions of credit, customer service and legislation.

Equipment firm grand opening

The grand opening is Friday through Sunday at Garlisch Equipment Sales Inc., 1260 E. Higgins, Elk Grove Village. The new owners, Bill and Dave Ristow, who also own Des Plaines Rental in Des Plaines have announced drawings for a small rider tractor and other prizes. Refreshments will be served. The grand opening will be from 8 a.m. to 9 p.m. Friday, from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday and from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Sunday.

The Garlisch firm specializes in sales and repair of lawn mowers and garden tractors. The Elk Grove store's Rent-Rite division features rental of small tools, tillers, carpet cleaners and other items.

People in business

BOB TUCKER of Des Plaines has been named sales promotion manager for the Illinois Bronze Paint Co., Lake Zurich. He will be in charge of the company's sales promotion programs, market planning, new product development, advertising and public relations coordination.

JOHN BOTTIGLIEREI of Arlington Heights has been appointed suburban newsstand sales development manager for The Chicago Sun-Times and Chicago Daily News. Since 1951, he has been an employe of the newspaper division of Field Enterprises Inc., publisher of the two papers.

GM ends rotary engine research

DETROIT (UPI) — General Motors all but doomed the rotary engine in the United States Tuesday with an announcement it has ended research and development work on the once-highly touted auto powerplant.

G M's four-paragraph statement marked the end of a seven-year program which cost the giant automaker an estimated $150 million, but failed to produce an engine it said could meet the needs of a fuel-short world.

Only the Japanese-built Mazda now is sold with the Wankel rotary engine.

BUT, EVEN THAT automaker is now emphasizing its conventionally powered small cars despite statements that the small rotary engine still has a future. Toyo-Kogyo, the Japanese manufacturer, reportedly is working on a rotary-powered sports car.

"While many improvements were made in many areas of rotary engine technology, our rotary engines do not demonstrate the potential for low emissions levels and fuel economy equal those of current reciprocating piston engines," GM said in its statement.

"We will continue to monitor publicly reported developments in rotary engine technology, pointing out that its advantages of smaller size and lighter weight remain especially attractive."

It was the promise of a great deal of power from a small package that attracted former GM President Edward N. Cole to the rotary engine.

GM signed a $50 million licensing agreement in 1970 with Audi-NSU and Wankel GmbH of Germany and Curtiss-Wright in this country and by mid-1974 felt the engine was sufficiently developed to introduce it in a new line of small cars — the 1975-model Chevrolet Monza series.

THE ARAB OIL EMBARGO of late 1973 already had triggered a new interest in fuel-efficient cars because of the long gasoline station lines.

A report by the Environmental Protection labeling Mazda's rotary-powered cars "gas-guzzlers" cut sales by the Japanese automaker to near nothing in this country. It was followed by a GM decision not to install the rotary in the Monza, a move believed to have hurt sales of the small car designed to accept a rotary engine.

Unlike current reciprocating piston engines in which the force of exploding gasoline drives pistons in engine cylinders, the Wankel engine has a single triangular-shaped rotor.

Its main features, before the energy crisis, was that it was lightweight, had fewer moving parts and more compact than conventional engines.

"I'll just sit here and watch TV like the Good Lord intended I should."

I couldn't help but smile at this remark from a very old and dear lady. I had just replaced our loaner TV for her set that needed a picture tube.

It is a hardship for many old folks to be without television for two and three days. Often this is their only important time consumer. Dow gains 13.06 in heavy trading

NEW YORK (UPI) — The stock market, aided by surprisingly good earnings reports and easier interest rates, scored its best gain in six months Tuesday in the heaviest trading of New York Stock Exchange issues since mid-March.

The Dow Jones industrial average soared 13.06 points to 937.16, the best gain since it rose 15.95 Oct. 13, 1976. In the past three sessions, the closely watched average has gained 22.43 points, including 5.22 Monday, in a rebound from its first quarter loss of 85.52 points.

The combination of factors, rather than a single news event, produced a broad-based rally. The NYSE common stock index climbed 0.68 to 54.41 and the average price of a common share increased by 41 cents.

Advances routed declines, 1,187 to 314, among the 1,881 issues crossing the composite tape.

The Big Board volume of 23,760,000 shares, up sharply from the 17,650,000 traded Monday, was the heaviest since 23,999,180 shares changed hands March 15.

Candy Corts helps younger hearing impaired children who attend Kensington School, where the area's first deaf class originated.

Growing up deaf was tough

But future looks bright for Candy

Candy Corts is a typical blue jeans and T-shirt teenager. She loves to swim, dance, watch television and attend parties. Now in her senior year at Hersey High School, blue-eyed blond Candy expects to leave home for college this fall.

On a superficial level, the Arlington Heights teenager's life seems perfectly normal.

It's not.

A carefully timed light awakens Candy each morning instead of the sound of an alarm. Her teletype telephone relays typewritten conversations rather than verbal ones. And she uses her eyes and hands to sing, not her voice.

"I AM DEAF," said Candy matter-of-factly. She smiled encouragement, repeating the phrase until her guest understood.

THERE'S BEEN considerable progress in providing educational opportunities for hearing impaired children since Candy Corts had her school picture taken for the 1961-62 school year. She was only four.

Byline report

Barbara Ladd

"Candy figures that if she starts right out by telling people she's deaf, everyone will feel more comfortable," explained her mother, Pat. "Sometimes she runs into a little trouble communicating, but she never gives up trying."

Pat studies sign language in the District 214 adult education program and interprets her own conversation as well as the visitor's so Candy is not left out.

The Corts family regards such communication as a normal, everyday procedure. But for the majority of Americans it's rare even to know someone who is deaf.

THE LATEST survey of hearing impaired persons, launched in 1970 for the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare (HEW), indicates that fewer than one per cent of the population are profoundly deaf like Candy. Six to seven per cent of Americans are hard of hearing, however, and in the Northwest suburbs about 150 hearing impaired students attend the public schools.

These students face a fairly bright future despite their handicap. Teaching techniques and educational facilities for the deaf are constantly improving. There are exciting technological developments, notably teletype telephones like Candy's and television with captions. Anti-discrimination legislation helps the deaf and hearing impaired to obtain jobs, credit and education.

Because the deaf form such a tiny segment of the American population, progress has been slow.

"WHEN CANDY was born, not much was being done for the deaf," said Pat as she thumbed through a family picture album. "I guess the big officials just didn't think the number of deaf was large enough to bother with."

Candy was born in the late 1950s, youngest of three girls. Early photos show a happy baby with wispy blond hair and the same twinkly, expressive eyes as today. But Pat and Bill, Candy's father, experienced much anxiety with their tiny daughter.

"I was pretty sure Candy wasn't hearing anything when she was, oh, about three months old," said Pat. "She never woke up to noises, but she would when someone bumped her bed or touched her. We took her to our doctor but he said it would be borrowing trouble to presume Candy wasn't hearing. It was too early to tell."

AT NINE months her mother took Candy to the Deaf Diagnostic Center at Northwestern University. The verdict: still too early to diagnose Candy's problem. Besides deafness, the possibilities included aphasia, autism, brain damage, mental retardation and schizophrenia.

Today about a dozen hospitals in the United States, including University of Illinois Hospital in Chicago, are experimenting with a "crib-o-gram." The device screens hearing impaired newborns from normal ones, so infants may be started in rehabilitative programs immediately.

For the Cortses, the wait was frustrating. "I started doing my own testing," said Pat. "I'd run the vacuum cleaner in her room to see if she'd notice, and once I even burst a paper bag behind her head. Nothing."

BY 16 MONTHS of age, Candy was finally declared profoundly deaf and placed in a play school situation at Northwestern. There she began oral training — a lip reading, vocalizing program.

At that time, many speech and hearing experts did not believe in combining sign language with lip reading and vocal training. Today "total communication" is the accepted mode of education.

"Oh, but Candy and I, we developed our own sign language," laughed Pat. She swung her arm out, closed her fist and Candy chuckled.

"When I'd be driving her to school . . . it was in Evanston and the traffic was heavy . . . well, it was hilarious. She'd want to talk to me, so she'd try to turn my face so I could read her lips and she could read mine. There I was, having my face turned by a tyke with all this traffic zooming around us. Well, she learned real quick that when I made that gesture, it meant 'Quiet, Mommy has to pay attention to something else.' "

AS CANDY grew older, the Cortses faced a greater problem than communication in the car. Public schools in the area would not allow hearing impaired children into the system.

> "We've all got handicaps . . . Some people's show and some people's don't"--Pat Corts

Candy would have to be institutionalized, officials said.

"We just couldn't see it," said Bill. "Candy is our daughter and she needs the love and discipline of a mother and father. We just couldn't see sending her away from all this."

So the Cortses, whose oldest daughter is blind, and other parents of "special" children waged a battle against the system. Their goal: a place in the school for little Candy and others like her.

THE COMMUNITY rallied behind their cause and in 1961 Candy and three other hearing impaired children skipped off to class at Kensington School.

Problems didn't end there, however. Candy was a lovable child, a charmer, but how do parents rear a deaf little girl into a responsible adult?

When Pat and Bill would get angry with her, Candy simply closed her eyes and shut out the situation.

When the Cortses moved into their present Arlington Heights home, Candy vomited before dinner every evening, because she had no other way of expressing her dismay and confusion over the new surroundings. When the neighborhood children would play . . . "Well, you just can't make kids play with your daughter," said Pat softly.

"HOW DO YOU BEST raise a deaf child?" she posed the question. "A group of us parents used to meet once a week in the evening and play instruction tapes from California's John Tracy clinic for the deaf. We'd try to find ways to help our kids grow up normally."

The Cortses kept a card file of everyday objects and common topics. When talking about something, Santa Claus, for instance, they could pull out the card, show it to Candy and help her understand what was going on in the world around her.

They took pictures of the places Candy visited — grocery stores, dentist offices, Grandma's — and showed Candy the destination when they would be driving.

"So often deaf kids get shuffled around from place to place and don't know where they're going," explained Pat. "They could be going to the doctor or to an ice cream store and not know which to expect. Hearing kids would never be treated that way. Candy deserves the same consideration as others."

She deserved it, but not everyone understood that.

AS A GIRL SCOUT, Candy discovered that little girls reach a stage when chattering about school and boys is more important than working on the projects — and she was left out.

When she shopped alone, some clerks became impatient, or frightened, or dishonest, purposefully giving her the incorrect change.

All too often normal children teased Candy.

"Usually I felt bad that the hearing kids wouldn't be my friends," admitted Candy. "Not now, though."

Schooling became more difficult as Candy grew older. Finally, at age 14, she, Pat and Caryn, her middle sister, started sign language training when Hersey High offered the course and "total communication" was accepted.

"IT WAS GREAT," said Pat. "At this point you could just see the frustration building up inside her. She had so much to say and no way to say it. Sign language was the greatest thing that happened to her. To us!"

Candy's vocabulary even with sign language, is still much below a hearing student's. It's a common problem for the deaf.

"Just think about it a minute," explained Pat. "She'd be taking a hard course like biology and even I could hardly pronounce and understand the words. How could I explain them to Candy?"

Northwest Special Education organization recognizes the special needs of deaf students. The school system now offers tutoring for individual problems (Candy is receiving extra help in vocabulary), and holds many deaf-only classes for basic coursework, so sign language can be used and the pace adjusted to hearing impaired students.

GROUP DISCUSSIONS for the deaf on college, finances and discrimination help these students cope with the hearing world. And at Hersey, where the high school age hearing impaired students from the area are enrolled, sign language is offered to hearing students for credit, and to parents and friends in night classes.

While the Northwest suburban hearing impaired program has developed immensely since Candy was a baby, it is not a panacea. Some problems the deaf experience can be handled only by a family's patience and love. Candy's resentment about her deafness is one such instance.

Candy knew the particulars. Pat had suffered from a high fever and flu

Occupational hazards exist for the psychiatrist

by PATRICK A. MALONE

Old saw about psychiatrists: You don't have to be crazy to be one, but it helps.

Dr. Herbert Modlin of the Menninger Foundation repeats it with only half a smile.

Modlin, a professor of community and forensic psychiatry at the well-known mental health institiution in Topeka, Kan., has treated mentally ill colleagues and written about their problems, including drug abuse, suicide and family breakups.

The odds of a psychiatrist committing suicide are more than 50 per cent higher than the average American, according to figures based on obituaries in medical journals. Psychiatrists have the highest suicide rate of physicians — 19 per 100,000 compared to 16 for ali physicians and 12 for the entire nation.

Why so high for psychiatrists?

IT IS NOT, Modlin emphasized, the often popular belief that all psychiatrists start out a little crazy.

The Menniniger School of Psychiatry, as well as other schools, gives rigorous psychological tests and interviews to young doctors who want to specialize in psychiatry. One goal is to find students who need psychiatric help themselves.

"This is a left-handed way of seeking help and we do everything we can to weed them out," Modlin said in an interview.

The dangers for even the most rock-stable of psychiatrists lie in the nature of their day-to-day work.

"We therapists keep too much to ourselves," he wrote in the Menninger Perspective magazine. "Instead of consulting with colleagues, we indulge in self-supervision, self-counseling and self-treatment."

PROFESSIONAL ethics block one outlet most people have for relieving pressure: talking with your spouse. And that can build a communications gap in the marriage.

Modlin described other related occupational hazards in the interview.

"One of the problems the psychiatrist has is, like everybody else, he may take his work home with him. But unlike other professions, if he acts like a psychotherapist in his house, this is obviously inappropiate. He may tend to interpret his wife's difficult behavior or his teen's difficult behavior, but it would be much better if he'd get plain mad."

Family members may rightly resent being manipulated by the same techniques a psychiatrist uses at the office.

Often the psychiatrist may simply be emotionally drained at the end of a day. "Our children may react by turning from us toward the more warmly responsive parent."

THE PSYCHIATRIST and members of his family are sometimes viewed uneasily in social settings.

"We get tarred with the brush of mental illness," Modlin said. "People are afraid of mental illness. No matter how sophisticated on the surface our society is, we're still afraid of madness, and those who deal with madness also are suspect."

In long-term treatment, a patient almost inevitably builds some emotional attachment and may subconsciously put the therapist into the role of a parent or a spouse. This process called transference, is often a valuable tool for bringing out problems, Modlin said.

"But it is also possible for the therapist, since he is a human being, to develop some irrational feelings about his patient and slip too easily into a parental role or into a marital role, particularly if the patient and therapist are of opposit sexes. It's quite frequent. If he doesn't recognizie it, he and the patient are in trouble."

SEX BETWEEN psychiatrist and patient "happens occasionally," but most legitimate therapists frown on it. "It seems to us very difficult to maintain a proper treatment atmosphere when the relationship in reality becomes erotic."

"Psychiatrists," he said, "are not a breed apart but fellow participants in the human comedy."

The doctor says

Fatigue a symptom of several things

I am a 17-year-old male, 5 feet 7 and weigh 137 pounds. My problem is that I am constantly tired. During summer I sleep an average of 10 to 11 hours per day, but during the school year I sleep only six to seven.

I work two nights a week until midnight or later. I stay away from all junk food and eat only fresh fruits, vegetables and lean meats.

My heart rate is 98 to 108 a minute and I have started jogging to lower it. My hemoglobin is above average. Please tell me what is wrong and how I can feel less tired.

Fatigue is a symptom of many things. It can be a sign of overwork, lack of sleep, psychological problems or illnesses such as anemia, low thyroid function, poor nutrition, tuberculosis, cancer or any number of diseases.

Since you are not complaining of losing weight, have no other complaints and don't have anemia, I doubt you have a serious illness. Nevertheless, the first requirement to solving the cause of fatigue is a careful medical examination. You could have diabetes and there is no way you would know this without tests of your blood sugar.

The second step, if you pass your medical examination with no abnormal findings, is to look to your lifestyle. If you smoke, stop. A fitness program is a good idea. Perhaps a full eight hours of sleep a night is useful and necessary for you to feel your best.

Look at your social life and goals. Everyone needs something to look forward to. It is amazing how much energy a person will have if he suddenly finds out he is going on a trip he wanted to make or to do something else that really interests him.

Psychological factors are closely related to your sense of energy and well being. Goals are part of this. Lack of interest in social aspects of life, lack of interest in others and non-involvement are commonly symptoms of psychological problems — all of which can make you fatigued and withdrawn from normal activities.

I am sending you The Health Letter number 9-6, Fatigue, to give you a better understanding about its causes and how to handle it. Others who want more information can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Just write to me in care of Paddock Publications, P.O. Box 326, San Antonio, Tex. 78292.

Is corn oil margarine better since safflower margarine also contains coconut oil?

All of the margarines have some saturated fats in them. If they didn't, they would be liquid. Both safflower oil margarines and corn oil margarines have had some of the fat converted to hydrogenated (saturated) fats. Your question suggests that you want a margarine low in saurated fat (coconut oil is over 80 per cent saturated fat) and high in polyunsaturated fat. The label of most margarines will tell you how much of each kind of fat it contains.

I looked at a package of margarine when I was writing you and it says 11 grams of fat and below that, polyunsaturated, 5 grams; saturated, 2 grams. That means the other 4 grams are monounsaturated fats. All fat in margarines will be one of these three fats. The brand I just looked at would be 18 per cent saturated fat (divide 2 by 11) and 45 per cent polyunsaturated fat (divide 5 by 11).

New meat loaf recipe might entice husband

Dear Dorothy: The last two times my husband has seemed totally disinterested in my meat loaf. Maybe I ought to change. Do you have one you can recommend? —Chris U.

I've been using the same recipe for years — ground chuck, chopped onion, salt and pepper, egg and bread soaked and then squeezed out of milk and catsup. Watched Bernaddette McLaughlin make hers not long ago. It was almost like mine, but I thought a touch better so will give her recipe. To one and one-half pounds of ground chuck, she sprinkles on about a teaspoon of salt and alittle pepper, adds one small grated onion, two tablespoons catsup, one egg, one-half teaspoon sugar, a sprinkling of Worcestershire sauce and two to three pieces of bread barely squeezed out of one-half cup milk. She gives it a good spanking to et rid of air spaces, then bakes it in a meat loaf pan in a 450-degree oven for 15 minutes, then at 350 degrees for 30 minutes longer. In the last few minutes she smooths a little catsup over the top for glazing.

Dear Dorothy: Is there a way to soften sugar that has become hard as rock? —Mrs. W. C. Dubro.

Sure. Just put the sugar into a container that can be closed tightly and put inside this container your rock-hard sugar, a piece of wet paper towel loosely wrapped in a piece of foil. Depending on the amount of sugar, it will be soft in 24 to 48 hours. Just be sure the piece of paper towel stays damp.

Dear Dorothy: Is it necessary to store nuts in the refrigerator or freezer if you're not going to use them right away? —Jo Dole Absolutely. They get rancid easily because of their high fat content.

Growing up deaf tough

when in her third month of pregnancy — the crucial time when the central nervous system is forming in the fetus.

A couple of years ago, Candy began to resent her deafness and, in a dramatic confrontation, accused her mother of purposefully causing the deafness.

"I WAS FLABBERGASTED," said Pat. "I didn't know what to say, so I didn't say anything. About a month later Candy became very ill with the flu and was sick for a long time. One day, when she was still in bed but feeling better, I sat on the edge of her bed and asked, 'Did you like being sick?'

"Candy blinked and signed back 'no.' So then I asked her if she wanted to be sick, if she asked to be sick. She said no.

"So I told her that was the same with me. I didn't want to be sick and I didn't want anything to happen to my baby — I loved her very much even before she was born. But I couldn't help it. And I think Candy understood then."

That was one of the rough times for Pat. So was watching Candy standing to one side as the neighborhood kids played, and seeing her pedal down the street on her first bicycle.

NOW CANDY IS grown, moving to college so she can experience dormitory life before being completely on her own. She wants to be a nurse or a medical technician. And her future looks bright.

"There've been lots and lots of good times with Candy, and we've had some rough ones," said Pat. "But you know, she's pretty special. And besides, we've all got handicaps. Some people's show, and some people's don't."

Bid 'em up to benefit hospital

Auction buffs should find plenty of action Sunday afternoon when Northwest Community Hospital Foundation holds its first benefit sale in the Jimmy Durante Room of the Arlington Park Hilton.

The room opens at 1 p.m. for a preview period, which also features a cash bar, snacks and a jazz band. A professional auctioneer will start the bidding at two o'clock.

Admission tickets at $3 per person will be sold at the door and also are available in advance through Friday at Northwest Community Hospital, Arlington Heights.

THE LONG LIST OF auction items includes sports equipment, yard and garden implements, household accessories, gift certificates and even toys for the children.

A special feature is a silent auction for dinners provided by restaurants throughout the suburbs and Chicago.

All proceeds go toward the purchase of equipment for Northwest Community Hospital's orthopedic department, especially that used for total hip transplant operations.

Sam Ditch, Palatine, is chairman; Mary Lou Alfini, Arlington Heights, co-chairman.

Toastmistresses meet —

Heartland Region, Council 5, of the International Toastmistress Clubs plans its spring meeting Saturday, April 23, at Howard Johnson Motor Lodge, 600 N. Lake Shore Dr., Chicago.

Toastmistress emphasizes leadership training, effective communications and organizational techniques. Council 5 includes members living in the Northwest suburbs.

Further information is available from Ms. Jimmie Rodgers of Buffalo Grove, 541-4155.

Jubilee to mark 50th year for Illinois Garden Club

The 50th annual meeting of the Garden Club of Illinois, Inc., is April 24-26 at the Arlingon Park Hilton Hotel, Arlington Heights.

Festivities begin with a golden jubilee buffet supper for members, their families and friends. Special guests will be Mrs. William J. Hedley, president-elect of the National Council of State Garden Clubs; Mrs. M. C. Gilhousen, Central Region director; Robert H. Rucker, National Council chairman of landscape design; and several past presidents of the state club.

MRS. JESSE McDonald, president-elect, will give a 50-year history of the club. Mrs. Dale Schafernak of Palatine will narrate a slide presentation of the 1977 Chicago Flower Show, which she chaired.

A luncheon and installation of officers conclude the three-day meeting. A program on Japanese flower arranging is the highlight of that final session.

Reservations for the jubilee can be made with Mrs. William Rising, 532 Ridgemoor Dr., Hinsdale, 60521.

Oakton teaching Oriental massage

"Massage — The Oriental Method" is the topic of a two-session MONACEP program to be held on consecutive Saturdays, beginning April 23, from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m.

Considered effective in relieving some minor ailments, Oriental massage will teach participants how to provide relief from stiff shoulders, back pain, headaches, weariness and tension. It is also said to promote better blood circulation.

The sessions will meet at Oakton College, Morton Grove. Tuition is $35 for both residents and non-residents of Maine and Niles Townships. Participants are asked to wear suitable clothing and bring a blanket and a notebook to class.

Further information may be obtained at the MONACEP office on campus, 967-5821.

Family counseling session Thursday

The next monthly counseling session by Rudolf Dreikurs Unit of the Family Education Association is Thursday, April 21, at 8 p.m. at Miner Junior High School, Arlington Heights.

Anyone interested in seeing the service at work for parents and children is welcome to this meeting.

The counseling is conducted by trained professionals in an open setting for the benefit of all who attend, either to participate or observe. The staff hears both sides of a problem — parents' and children's — then makes recommendations.

The sessions are designed for parents who have children from infancy stage through age 12.

Those who wish to study FEA principles systematically may attend classes for a low fee. Informaion is available from Kaye Burton, 253-4321.

Show reveals nothing new about Hughes

CBS's four-hour film, "The Amazing Howard Hughes," succeeds at highlighting the absurdities and obsessions of the suave billionaire turned hermit.

However, the made-for-television movie sheds no new light on Hughes, a man who remains more of a mystery in death than when he was alive.

The constant changing of scenes in this two-part special, which will be shown at 8 p.m. today and Thursday on Channel 2, is a necessary evil that is well done without seeming too complicated.

THE FIRST PART of the film covers 13 years, beginning with an 18-year-old Hughes who takes over his father's Hughes Tool Co. in Houston and ending with his famous record-breaking world flight in 1938.

The second part of the film continues through to his strange death in April 1976. Because of the wide spans of time covered in the movie, a wide range of wardrobe changes, airplanes and automobiles were necessary for the project which was filmed in just 40 days, in 140 different locations.

Tommy Lee Jones, who stars as the invincible Hughes, had 68 costume changes while Ed Flanders, portraying Hughes' accountant and confidant, Noah Dietrich, had 48. The 1920s suits with pleated pants and padded jacket shoulders were as difficult to find and reproduce as the World War I fighter planes used in Hughes' 1928 movie "Hell's Angels."

Viewers are quickly led from the Pasadena courthouse and city hall where Hughes obstinately testified in 1947 in a U.S. Senate hearing and vowed to fly his giant Spruce goose plane, to Hollywood where he occasionally showed up for the opening of one of his notorious films.

THE RUSH-ABOUT filming, meant to point up Hughes' varied career, must have been an exhausting effort, especially for actor Tommy Lee Jones who masterfully captures the brilliant but bizarre Hughes character and who appears in nearly every sequence of the film.

"The Amazing Howard Hughes" is bound to reap high ratings with Hughes' mysterious death only a year behind us and his will still the focus of much controversy.

The movie is based on the book, "Howard the Amazing Mr. Hughes," written by Noah Dietrich and Bob Thomas.

One troublesome element of the film seems to be that director William A. Graham continually tries to lend credibility to Dietrich's relationship with Hughes and the story Dietrich tells in his book about the world's richest man.

DIETRICH, SEEMINGLY Hughes' closest associate, would even find himself bewildered with Hughes' erratic and reclusive behavior.

The film adequately points up Hughes' technical brilliance, his fascination with the unknown, his fear of being anything but the best at whatever he tackled and his daring urge to gamble on an unsure thing.

A young Hughes took the dollar profits of the family business to begin what would be a life-long string of expensive tangents. His business instincts told him to get out of a financial project when it looked like it wouldn't work. It happened with Hughes' plans to manufacture a steam-run automobile.

But his aspirations in golf, films and aviation soared to great heights. His lust to make movies with lots of aviation stunt flying and daring airborne crisscrosses sold well at the box office. His Westerns featuring busty, feisty young women came later.

WHILE THE $4 MILLION film he made introducing Jean Harlow to the world was being premiered, Hughes was in coveralls, pondering over an airplane engine in a dirty hangar.

"THE AMAZING HOWARD HUGHES"

He didn't like people, but he had an eye for beautiful women. His first wife was a socialite whom he rarely saw, and he fell in love with an independent and charming Katherine Hepburn who insisted on remaining just friends. Hughes contracted beautiful girls for movie roles they never got, sent them a dozen red roses every day and put them up in a luxurious Beverly Hills home.

He wooed the attention of celluoid film queens like Billie Dove, Jane Russell, Lana Turner, Linda Darnell, Ginger Rogers and Elizabeth Taylor. He wanted beauty around him only for show, and he was willing to pay any price for it.

The young Hughes demonstrates an indestructible character — he survives plane crashes and hurdles financial failures leaving no time to lament over his blunders.

THE MIDDLE-AGED Hughes has the power and money to command people, demand their time and buy what no one else would dream of having.

The older Hughes was neurotic about his health, fearful of dying and completely withdrawn from society. It is that ghostly figure of Hughes, being transported by suited, gloved body guards like pallbearers of a living corpse, that shocked the world a year ago.

Hughes grew more bizarre the 20 years he was gone from public view. The show does an admirable job of giving the world a glimpse of a man whose perverted obsessions and technical wizardry has made him one of the perplexing figures of our time.

HIGHLIGHTS:

- "The Wonderful Kangaroo" features the films of Emmy-winning naturalist Des Bartlett and his wife, Jen. Peter Ustinov narrates the one-hour special at 7 p.m. today on Channel 5.
- Alex Haley will appear on today's edition of "Good Morning, America" at 7 a.m. on Channel 7 to refute the allegation by London Sunday Times Review reporter Mark Ottoway that his bestseller "Roots" is a joke because Haley used unreliable sources for his information.
- Let's hope the "Television Critics Circle Awards" of Monday night doesn't become a perennial event. As expected, 117 nationwide critics voted "Roots" program of the year and "Evel Knievel's Death Defiers" the worst. "Eleanor and Franklin," "Mary Tyler Moore," "M*A*S*H," "Upstairs, Downstairs" all received their fair share of awards. ABC walked off with 12, CBS with 10, public broadcasting with 5 and NBC with 1.

Youthful Wrigley more car buff than baseball nut

by TONI GINNETTI

The world knew P.K. Wrigley, 82, as the millionaire recluse owner of the Chicago Cubs, the heir to a fortune collected from a 5-cent-a-package industry.

Milton Currie knew him another way — as a car buff, a fellow who didn't really talk baseball, a "very nice man."

Currie, 72, is unique among most old-time Cub fans, the ones who remember the glory days on the North Side.

SURE, HE remembers the players, but he knew Wrigley, too, even if only as an acquaintance.

"I used to work for a grocery store in Chicago and they were customers," Currie recalled. "I delivered groceries to his home on Lakeview Avenue. When? Oh, I'd say around the 1930s."

Currie, of Prairie View, today delivers for Busse Florist in Mount Prospect, but in those days he was a young Cub fan who occasionally got to take the Wrigley purchases home.

They didn't talk much about the team, though, even though those were the Golden Years. P.K.'s father, William, was still alive and he owned the ball club then, Currie said.

The talk instead was about cars.

"HE WAS A bug for Dusenburgs. We talked about cars," he remembered. "He didn't talk too much about baseball, 'course his dad was still alive then and running the club. But Dusenburgs were his hobby."

Currie, like any good Cub fan, can recite the great ones of the past ("I think the best one they had was Rogers Hornsby, 'course I was too young for Tinkers to Evers to Chance"), and like the loyalists he might even wince anew reliving the "classic" Cub trades of the past ("I've seen some good players go").

"He was a very nice man. He was real friendly, not stuck up or anything, not one of those guys that because he had it and you didn't he wasn't going to talk to you."

Cub fan mourns—at Sox game

The day Philip K. Wrigley died, Robert C. Heiden Jr. asked for the day off from work.

But "Rolling Meadows' No. 1 Cub fan" didn't plan to stay home and mourn the Cub owner's death. "It's a beautiful day to go to the White Sox opener," the 44-year-old mailman said.

"I was sorry to hear about his death," he said, "but 82 is pretty old and I guess he was in poor health. I just wish the Cubs good luck and hope they win a pennant."

Heiden has been a Cub fan all his life, and in 1969 he began following the team around the country.

"I've been in every National League ball park except San Francisco," he said. "When I get the money I just get on a plane and go."

Heiden got to know all the sportscasters and many team members in his travels, but he never met Wrigley. "I wouldn't know him if I saw him. He was a good owner and I liked his Juicy Fruit," he said.

Heiden is not worried about what will happen to Wrigley Field now that its owner is dead. He does not worry about the park being sold to someone who will install lights and astro-turf.

"I don't care about all that," he said. 'I think it will still be a friendly place."

P.K. 'all right' with neighborhood fans

Back in 1945, he stood outside Wrigley Field all night waiting to get World Series tickets for his boss.

Raymond M. Goedert was a young man then, but the years have not clouded the last glory year of the Chicago Cubs.

He lived at 1313 W. Cornelia in Chicago, less than four blocks from the ball park.

"I like the Cubs. I was always a Cub fan," he recalls. "The Sox were too far away."

TUESDAY MORNING, Goedert was inside the car outside his Elk Grove Village apartment at 1128 Cedarwood when he heard that P. K. Wrigley had died.

He shook his head and stared at the steering column.

"I'll be damned," he said. "I always thought he was all right."

Goedert didn't always agree with the late Cub owner. Just this past winter he was irritated when Wrigley traded outfielder Rick Monday. And often, he figures, Wrigley didn't make a deal when he should have.

But, particularly because he lived there, Goedert admired Wrigley's concern for the neighborhood. He remembers when neighbors were surveyed to see whether they'd agree to let lights be installed at the ball park.

THEY DIDN'T agree, and the lights weren't installed.

If anything though, he admired Wrigley most because the owner wouldn't give in to the spiraling salary demands being made by today's ball players.

"The salaries went too outrageous. They can make a good living without getting into hundreds of thousands," Goebert says. There is a pause. "I'm sorry to hear that he died."

White Sox stagger, win

by BOB GALLAS

Ask White Sox pitcher Ken Brett for an opinion of his outfield and he'll tell you "The grass is growing real well."

That observation remains unchanged after. Brett's 5-2 mastery over the Boston Red Sox before 34,612 home opener fans at Comiskey Park Tuesday. Brett went 7-2/3 innings before yielding to reliever Dave Hamilton and spent much of his time looking to the outfield — and hoping.

The Sox garden patrol, not known for their defensive prowess, went up against a strong wind blowing out and a bright sun Tuesday and ended up at times looking more like the June Taylor dancers as they staggered under fly balls that were lost in the high sky and pushed around by shifting breezes.

"IT WAS STRANGE to see the ball carry that well," said manager Bob Lemon, whose troops put up five runs in the first two innings and held on to beat starter Rick Wise. "(Richie) Zisk is a pretty good outfielder. When you see him battling out there, you know the winds gotta be pretty tough."

The Red Sox got a run thanks to the wind in the second inning when George Scott lined over Ralph Garr's head in left field for a double. Garr

Portland dumps Bulls

Special to The Herald

PORTLAND, Ore. — Maurice Lucas hit a pair of key baskets after the Bulls had battled back into the game, and Portland went on to ring up a 96-83 triumph in opening NBA playoff action here Tuesday night.

It was the fifth straight setback the Trailblazers have dealt out to the Bulls this season. The best two-of-three series now switches back to the Chicago Stadium Friday night.

Lucas finished with a game-high 29 points after shaking off foul trouble in the second half including a technical. He hit from the key with six minutes remaining in the contest to break a 77-77 stalemate after Chicago had put together five straight points to forge the tie.

The Bulls were never ahead once in the game.

Wilbur Holland connected on a long shot from the baseline to knot the count, played before 12,774 enthusiastic fans and a pair of inexperienced officials. And Holland, who finished with 18, struck again after Portland had climbed into an 81-77 lead.

It was all Portland the rest of the way however.

Mickey Johnson paced the Bulls in scoring with 19. He was the only player to foul out of the game despite the fact that every Blazer starter was in foul trouble in the late going.

AT HALFTIME THE Bulls trailed by 10, 52-42, and it was only because of an excellent showing at the free throw line that they could still consider themselves in the game.

Portland jumped off to a quick 10-2 lead and with potent defensive play to couple with its always strong fast break attack, the Trailblazers went on to double Chicago's output from the field, 24-12, over the first two quarters of play.

The Bulls hit on 16 of 17 attempts from the charity line to compensate for their cold showing on the floor.

Through the first half, the Trailblazers were paced by six-foot guard Dave Twardzik, a 10-point average player. Twardzik had 14, penetrating to collect most of his points on layups.

AFTER FALLING behind early, the Bulls slowly scrapped back into contention, tying the game at 17-all and then again at 19-19 before Portland ran off 10 straight to take a 29-19 first quarter advantage. Bob Gross accounted for six of the Blazers' last eight points of the period.

Through the first five minutes of the second stanza the Bulls had added only two more points to their count but they managed to keep Portland in check as well. Mickey Johnson then managed to warm up on his outside shooting a bit and he had eight points at mid-game to head the Bull offense.

IN OTHER NBA playoff action Tuesday, Charlie Scott, playing his best game since returning from a broken left forearm, scored seven straight points early in the fourth period to give the Boston Celtics a 104-94 win over San Antonio.

Scott, who missed 38 games before rejoining the club April 3, took control after San Antonio had closed to 79-73 one and a half minutes into the fourth quarter. The slender North Carolina graduate scored on a driving layup, then hit a far away jumper and converted the subsequent free throw and followed with another basket — all in a one minute stand — to put Boston ahead to stay at 86-73.

Scott finished with 13 of his 19 points in the fourth quarter. Backcourt mate Jo Jo White led all scorers with 24 points, 12 in the final period.

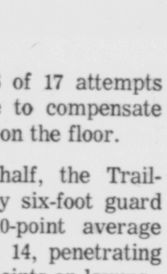
The P. K. Wrigley courage: 'No, I will not change'

Byline report

Art Mugalian



They say that time passed Phil Wrigley by.

Who said that?

They say that P. K. Wrigley had lost touch with reality.

What do they know?

They say that events overtook the man.

And yet those same events overtook us all — and Phil Wrigley was the only one among us who had the courage to stand up and say, "No, I will not change."

THE DEATH OF Philip Knight Wrigley Tuesday came at a time when the baseball establishment has begun to crumble from within. The game is in trouble, largely because there are no more Phil Wrigleys to point the way. Now that he is gone, the game will be without a guiding conscience.

But where had Wrigley been lately? He was once a major contributor to the well-being of the National League, but since the 1950s — perhaps because of advancing age — he had taken little active interest in the operations of major league baseball.

He sat back at his Lake Geneva home and watched. What he saw over the past 20 years must have saddened him.

He had to realize he was powerless to reverse the inevitable tide that was washing baseball adrift. He was one man alone — standing in the wake of a billion-dollar industry gone amok. He could only look back in wonder and amazement as the game he loved headed toward self-destruction.

His final act of desperation was a modest one — but it enraged Cub fans. When he traded two-time batting champion Bill Madlock, Wrigley tried to make it clear that the action was designed to de-escalate the soaring contract demands of his players.

"I hope to weather the storm," he had said at the time. "This can't last forever."

IF WRIGLEY'S ACTION upset the fans, it had to hurt Wrigley even more — and not because he hated to see an unhappy Madlock leave, although, ironically, Cub players have always been among the highest-paid in the major leagues.

The Cubs' owner worshiped the fans. Everything he did, every move he made, was intended to please the fans. The fan has always been king on the North Side.

So when Wrigley traded away his most popular players last winter it must have broken his heart. He felt that the fans would understand someday that what he was doing was for their own good.

THE GREATEST irony of all was that, with his dying act, Wrigley knew he would be hurting the fans he cared so much about.

Nowhere in baseball's bylaws does it state that an owner must install lights and play half its games at night. Nowhere does it impel a team to sell advertising on its outfield walls, or put up outlandish electric scoreboards that never seem to work, or put in money-saving artificial grass.

Nowhere in baseball's bylaws does it require an owner to charge $6, $7, or $8 for a box-seat ticket.

It was always fashionable to criticize Wrigley for his outmoded ways and his outclassed ball teams. It would have been easy for him to change his ways, to yield to the mounting pressure of big-time, big-money sports.

IT WOULD HAVE been so easy.

But at some point over the course of the past 32 years, Wrigley must have seen that winning at all costs was not the solution. Higher salaries and exorbitant demands would only lead to more of the same.

And Wrigley, the consummate amateur, made a poor businessman. He could survive in the world of chewing gum because he sold a good product for a reasonable price. But in baseball he was too often trapped by his own love for the game and for the fans.

As long as the old rules were in effect, Wrigley could stay afloat, keeping his players happy and giving the customers a salable product. But the demands of the new economics drove him out of the market.

HE PROBABLY longed for the old days when the grass was green and the sunlight filtered in through the back of the grandstands and there were no $100,00; benchwarmers.

But he never complained. He didn't resist change; he tried to cope with it. And when he saw he was fighting a losing battle, he tried to warn us of the grave consequences.

If time passed Phil Wrigley by, it happened only because he let it.

And Wrigley didn't lose touch with reality as much as reality finally lost touch with P.K.

Leaders praise Cubs' Philip K. Wrigley

Tributes to Cubs' owner Philip K. Wrigley came from sports figures across the nation after his death at 82 early Tuesday.

Wrigley, whose wealth was estimated at more than $100 million, was stricken at his home in Lake Geneva, Wis., Monday and taken to nearby Lakeland Hospital where he died a few hours later. Death was caused by acute gastrointestinal hemorraghing.

Wrigley "loved the game as passionately as anyone in it," said Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn in New York.

"PHIL WAS NEVER afraid to be different. He had his own perceptions and the courage to follow them. Baseball history may call him prophetic."

Bill Veeck, White Sox president who got his start as a man of all duties in Wrigley Field, said, "I think sports and baseball in particular has lost probably the last true sportsman.

"He was a very honorable man, a very kind man. I know. I worked for him for many years. We didn't always agree but he allowed people the right to disagree. He was the first to recognize the comfort of the fan was important.

"I REMEMBER I helped design chairs which were a little wider and more comfortable. In the process we lost maybe 15 per cent of capacity. He felt very strongly that in the overall picture the fan was more important than the capacity."

M. Donald Grant, head of the New York Mets, declared Wrigley "was a great lover of the game and obviously in it for the sport." Charles O. Finley of the Oakland A's said players "never had a better friend. All the sports will miss Phil Wrigley."

George Halas of the Chicago Bears, who leased Wrigley Field for Bears' home game from the inception of the team, said "sports fans have suffered a great loss. He was a giant of a man who, time and time again, demonstrated his integrity and strength of character."

ILLINOIS GOV. James R. Thompson said, "There are many monuments to Phil Wrigley. A proud company, a beautiful building, a baseball team which has thrilled generations of fans, but, there is a more significant monument that will endure when all the others are gone."

"Mr. Wrigley was from the old school — he did things right or not at all. He refused to sacrifice pride and quality for any other goal. They were his hallmarks. A grand gentleman — in many ways the first citizen of Illinois — is gone, and we will miss him."

Chicago's Acting Mayor Michael Bilandic called Wrigley a "man of great principle who loved Chicago and did much good for our city."

BILANDIC SAID, "He was always interested in the well being of his city, as shown by his stand against night games, which he felt would be detrimental to the neighborhood near Wrigley Field."

Wrigley, though not active in the day by day operation of the baseball team, retained his veto power over the operation of the Cubs and always was consulted on major issues. His approval was mandatory on big money contracts for players, and he was the decision maker on major front office personnel.

He gave up his presidency of the team to his son in 1961, but remained as the chief operating officer and chairman.

But in later years he spent most of his time at his homes in Lake Geneva or on Chicago's Lake Shore Drive. At Lake Geneva he preferred to tinker with machinery and occupy himself in various handicraft projects.

He never installed lights at Wrigley Field because he believed it would be an imposition on nearby residents. Each year, though the Cubs have been a consistent loser financially, he made costly improvements to the park, including once the complete replacement of the steel footings holding the upper deck.

White Sox treat fans to 5-2 opening day triumph started in on the ball at first, then started back too late.

Moments later Carl Yastremski flied routinely to Zisk in right but the wind pushed the ball in and it fell in front of Zisk for a hit. Zisk alertly threw in to the cutoff man, shortstop Alan Bannnister, who nailed Scott trying to score. But Yastremski, who took third on the throw, later scored on an infield out.

"We worked hard on the cutoff play in spring training," said Lemon, who stressed fundamentals in camp. "So I was glad to see that play work."

THE SOX opened with a run in the first when Garr led off with a single, advanced on an infield out, then scored on Jorge Orta's double. But the big Sox push came in the fourth when they sent eight men to the plate and banished Wise to the showers with a four-run outburst. Tom Murphy came on with one out and two men on and crushed the Sox rally with one pitch, a double play ball hit by Zisk.

Wise wasn't fully responsible for his demise, getting some help from third baseman Butch Hobson, whose errant throw to the plate on an excuse-me infield hit by Garr, went three feet over the head of catcher Bob Montgomery, allowing two runs to score.

Both Orta and Chet Lemon broke out of their early-season slumps with key hits Tuesday. Lemon, who went into the game hitless in his first 12 at bats, went 2-for-4 with an RBI double in the second and a single in the fourth. Orta, who was 1-for-11, was 3-for-four with a single, double, triple and two RBI.

"I WAS GLAD to see Chet break out of it," said the Sox skipper. "He was pressing and getting down on himself pretty hard. And everyone tells me Orta is looking much better since he moved back to his natural position, second base."

Manager Lemon yanked Brett in the seventh even though the lefthander wanted to pitch to Yastremski. "He (Brett) told me that he's been getting Yas out all day and to leave him in there," said Lemon.

Hamilton, making his third appearance in four games, got Yastremski, who flied deep to right for the final out. "It wasn't a good fastball that I threw him but I knew it wasn't going out," said Hamilton.

WILBUR WOOD is due back in Chicago today but it still may be a while before the portly knuckleballer pitches for the Sox. Wood remained behind in Florida after spring training to strengthen the knee that was broken last season.

"We'll have to play it by ear," said Lemon of his premier lefty. "He can't come off the disabled list until Thursday. After that, he can go back on the roster at a moment's notice."

Catcher Brian Downing sat out Tuesday's contest with his reoccurring arm trouble. Downing originally hurt the arm on an aborted throw to second last season and the arm has been giving him trouble ever since. "We put ice on it today. It could be ready Wednesday. We just don't know," Lemon said.

Bart Johnson (9-16 in '76) will make his first start of the year today for the Sox, going against Fergie Jenkins in the final game of the series with Boston. Jenkins went 7-2/3 innings in his first start of the year against Cleveland, giving up just one run but was not involved in the final decision.

SOX SHORTS: Today's game is an afternoon contest, scheduled for 1:15 . . . Ralph Garr (7-for-16) and Eric Soderholm (5-for-16) have now hit safely in all four Sox games this year . . . Rick Wise has never beaten the White Sox, dropping five decisions to the South Siders.

Major league roundup

Orioles win in ninth, Seaver blanks Cards

A record-setting crowd of 55,120 in Milwaukee went home disappointed when Rick Dempsey singled home the game's only run in the ninth inning to give the Baltimore Orioles a 1-0 victory over the Brewers Tuesday afternoon.

Jim Palmer's two-hit performance keyed the Orioles to their first win of the season. He yielded only a second-inning single to Sixto Lezcano and a leadoff single by Jim Wohlford in the ninth, while striking out six and walking one.

In other major league games Tuesday, rookie Steve Kemp stroked a three-run homer, his first as a major leaguer, to give the Detroit Tigers a 6-1 victory over Toronto, their first of the year.

Kemp, the No. 1 choice of the 1976 draft from the University of California, victimized Toronto starter Bill Singer with his maiden major league homer after Ben Ogilvie doubled and Jason Thompson walked in the sixth inning.

Dick Allen and Wayne Gross hit homers, Rob Piccola made three fine defensive plays and Stan Bahnsen and Dave Giusti combined on a five-hitter to the Oakland A's to a 6-2 win over California.

It was Oakland's second straight victory over the Angels and the rebuilt A's fourth win in five games this season.

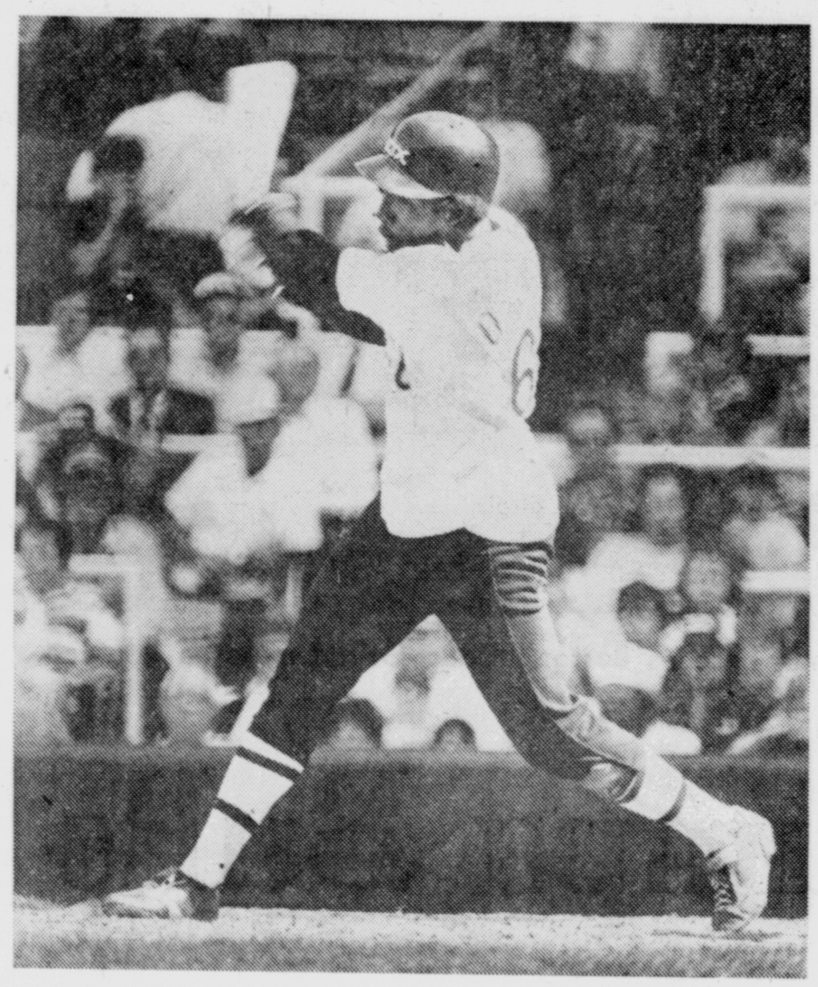
IN THE NATIONAL League Tom Seaver, showing the same midseason form as the 89-degree weather at the Mets' home opener, allowed the St. Louis Cardinals only five hits and singled home two runs in leading New York to a 4-0 victory.

Seaver struck out five and did not walk a man in pitching the 40th shutout of his career and improving his season's record to 2-0. John Milner and John Stearns hit solo homers for the Mets.

Rennie Stennett's ninth-inning double gave the Pittsburgh Pirates a 2-1 victory over the Montreal Expos. Dave Parker led off the Pirates' ninth with a single and moved to second on Bill Robinson's sacrifice bunt.

After Montreal relief pitcher Will McEnaney intentionally walked Phil Garner, Stennett doubled to the right-center field fence.

The Houston Astros scored three runs in the first inning and J.R. Richard combined with Ken Forsch on an eight-hitter to stop Cincinnati 4-3 for the Astros' second straight victory over the Reds.



LASHING OUT with one of his three hits Tuesday in the White Sox home opener is Jorge Orta. The Sox second baseman had a single, double, triple and two RBI in the 5-2 victory over Boston.

Schones breaks out of 'slump' with 6-7¾ high jump

by ART MUGALIAN

If Fremd high jumper Brian Schones had never reached 6-7 again, his coach wouldn't have forgiven himself.

That goes double for Schones.

But the muscular and versatile Viking finally broke the barrier Tuesday at Palatine with a 6-7¾ effort to set a school outdoor mark and help Fremd beat Palatine in a dual meet, 81-65.

SCHONES ALSO WON the 220 in 23.6 and took second behind teammate Gary Gunderson in the 120-high hurdles as each of them tied a school record of 14.7.

For jump coach Joe Samojedny, the high-jumping mark removed an awful lot of pressure — not only for Schones but for Samojedny himself. After reaching 6-7 twice indoors with an unorthodox three-step approach, Schones altered his technique at Samojedny's urging.

"He'd been stuck on 6-2 for a long time," said Samojedny after Schones barely missed at 6-9. "But I take the blame for that because we changed his approach in order to take advantage of his power. Of course, there was also the psychological roadblock of going 6-7 in his first meet and being expected to keep doing it."

Schones once again beat Palatine senior Tom Digan in a head-to-head duel, although Digan tied his own personal best with a 6-4 jump.

SCHONES, WHO weighs close to 200 pounds, is a power jumper who virtually bulls over the bar. Samojedny saw his potential and started to work on a new approach.

"Last year it was five steps, then it was two and now it's eight," shrugged Schones.

"Brian's problem now isn't his steps," said Samojedny. "He has to get consistency in his approach. He's got plenty of height. His last attempt at 6-9, he was two or three inches over the bar. He's got the height to go 6-10, 6-11."

Fremd also got excellent performances from discus thrower Tom Merritt, who tossed 141-11, and Randy Polomsky, who beat Palatine's Dave Kennedy with a 10.0 clocking in the 100. Kennedy ran a 10.1. Polomsky came back to run a 49.8 anchor leg in the mile relay, won by Fremd in 3:34.2.

PALATINE'S TOM Johnson turned in the most impressive time on the track, however, when he churned out a 9:24.1 in the two-mile. Dogged by Fremd's Dan Inbody through the first mile, Johnson shook his opponent with a blistering fifth lap and breezed to the victory.

The blond Palatine junior came back for a 4:31.2 win in the mile, passing Fremd soph Tom Ross on the last lap. Ross ran a 4:35.

"I wasn't feeling too well today," said Johnson, who has been on special carbohydrate diet for some time. "I've had a cold in my chest and I wasn't breathing well at all during the (two-mile) race."

IN OTHER DUAL meets Tuesday, Hoffman Estates upset Rolling Meadows 77-64 and Buffalo Grove whipped Hersey 77-55.

Rolling Meadows, the Mid-Suburban's second-place team at the indoor championships in March, was competing without several of its top athletes, including Rick Sutton, Dave Boursaw, Tom Choice and Jeff Schrock.

Hoffman got strong efforts from half-miler Kevin Rooney (2:03.2), pole vaulter Paul Major (13-6), quarter-miler Andy Breda (52.7), and low hurdler Bob Kearley (41.8).

Meadows managed eight firsts, including good performances by shot-putter Scott Jennings (52-1, discus man Rich Huber (140-9, and sprinter Bill Kasper, who won the 100 in 10.4

BUFFALO GROVE'S victory was highlighted by a nice double for Bison junior Joe Schmidt, who won the two-mile in 9:52.6 and came back with a 2:01.7 in the 880. Tom Claeys won the triple jump (41-10) and the long jump (20-3) for the Buffaloes and Ben Orcutt won both sprint events.

Hersey's top effort came from the 440-relay team of Joe Velicek, Dick Hawes, Tom Kruesch, and Mike Nirva. They raced to the area's fastest time, a 44.6, despite a bad baton exchange between the third and fourth runners.

Falcons, Vikes, Cards win big

Everybody is busy in MSL tennis

by CHARLIE DICKINSON
Tennis Editor

Anyone with a taste for sun, wind and tennis had their fill Tuesday as the Mid-Suburban League indulged in multiple dual meets at three locations.

With all 13 teams in action at Forest View, Buffalo Grove and Rolling Meadows there were 22 dual meets contested, a lot of sunburn collected and a few conclusions reached.

Foremost is that Forest View, Arlington and Fremd stepped out as the heavyweights of MSL tennis this year.

EACH WENT through the day's action without a defeat and Forest View breezed through the field at their home courts without losing a set.

"Forest View played very, very well," said Palatine coach John Carlson. "They'll be competitive with anyone in the league this year."

Carlson's Pirates took a 5-0 thumping from Forest View, only the second doubles match taking as long as three sets. The Pirates rebounded to win two other duals.

Dave O'Donnell has played in the shadow of Arlington's Paul Wei much of his varsity career, bowing to the Cardinal senior in last year's MSL title match, but he is unbeaten this year and lost only three games in three matches Tuesday.

FOREST VIEW'S other singles players, Steve Calderone at second singles and Nick Kekos at third, also needed the minimum number of sets to post three wins apiece.

Forest View also got strong doubles play from Doug Majewski and Mark Stiles at first doubles and George Defoitas and Rory Kortas at second.

Stiles and Majewski were not extended beyond two sets in any of their matches.

Over at Rolling Meadows, the Arlington Cardinals paid little heed to Forest View's strong showin as they bumped off four more opponents and ran their consecutive dual meet win string to 108.

THE CARDINALS were not quite as perfect as Forest View, losing a second singles match to Prospect.

Wei chugged through his four opponents in fine fashion, handling each in two sets.

Arlington coach Tom Pitchford had to juggle his lineup to replace Todd Van Gorp, who was sick.

Scott Montgomery was elevated to Van Gorp's second singles spot and handled himself well except for a 7-5, 6-2 loss to Prospect's Tim Christiansen.

KURT WIEBE filled in at third singles and rambled to four straight set victories.

"Everyone did a good job," Pitchford said. "This was a long day and I think the kids got the most out of it."

Arlington's first doubles team of Bob Pionke and Mike Doering, by many accounts one of the finest tandems to play in the MSL in years, won each of their matches in straight sets.

Fremd ruled the field at Buffalo Grove, losing a point to the Bison but shutting out Schaumburg and Hersey.

BOB MILLIGAN and Mike Mitsch were unbeaten for the Vikings at first and second singles.

Likewise, the doubles teams of Jack Needham and Don Sullivan and Bill Casey and Jim Bayer went through the day without a loss.

Prospect came away from the Rolling Meadows courts with three dual meet wins in four tries.

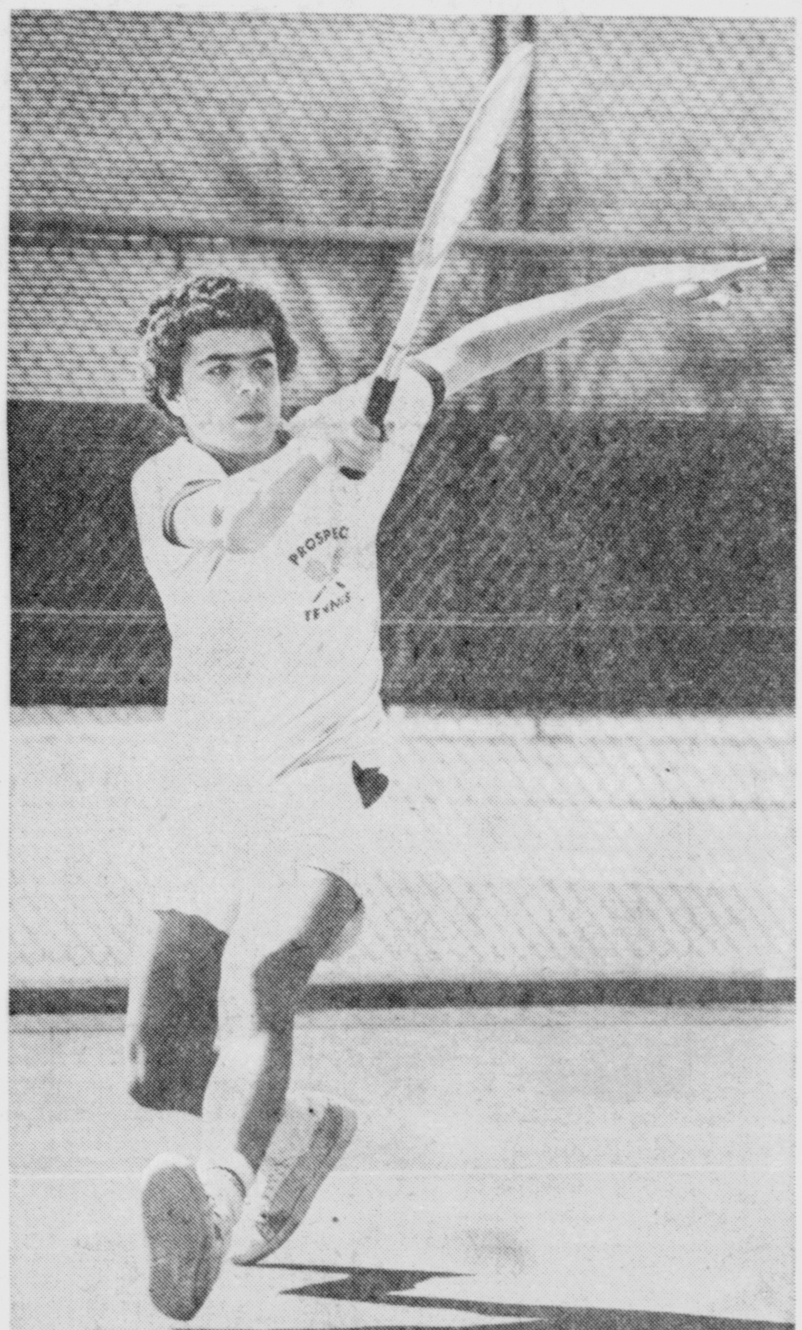
"I was pleased with the way my kids came back against a tough Meadows team after losing to Arlington," said Prospect coach Jim Gelhaar.

THE KNIGHTS shook off their 4-1 loss to Arlington and beat Meadows, 4-1.

Brad Weber picked up the Mustangs' only point at first singles.

Tim Christiansen was unbeaten in four matches, playing at both second and third singles.

St. Viator also picked up an East Suburban Catholic Conference win by hammering St. Joseph's 5-0.



THERE WAS a lot of tennis played in the MSL Tuesday and Prospect's Dave Mallon helped the Knights win three out of four dual meets with his play at first singles.

Umpire class opens

There will be a training session for persons interested in umpiring Buffalo Grove Recreation Assn. T-Ball, Farm and Minor League games, Sunday, April 17, from 1-5 p.m. in the Buffalo Grove High School gym.

The session is open to anyone 12 years of age or older. Questions should be directed to BGRA Chief Umpire, Bill Clampitt, 537-3599.

Falcons take tourney first

Forest View's undefeated girls softball team captured first place in its own tournament Tuesday, winding up the five-team round-robin meet with a clean 4-0 record. The Falcons were followed by Arlington (3-1), Conant (2-2), Proviso East (1-3) and Hersey (0-4).

The key game in the tourney, which began Monday, was the Forest View-Arlington game Tuesday afternoon. After falling behind briefly 4-3, Forest View (5-0) rallied to beat the Cardinals 7-4.

A four-run fifth inning provided the winning margin for the Falcons as Judy Pleizkherdt, Dawn Goebbert and Sherri King each delivered run-producing hits. Goebbert ended the game with three hits to top Forest View, while Arlington was paced by Peri Jackson with a pair of hits.

Nancy Lachus (2-0) picked up the win, and Jackson received the loss.

Tigers deal aging Horton to Texas

DETROIT — The Detroit Tigers Tuesday traded veteran Willie Horton to the Texas Rangers for right-handed relief pitcher Steve Foucault and cash, the teams announced. Horton, the aging slugger who has complained that bench duty this season is "like a slow death for me," had the right to veto the trade because he has been in the majors 10 years, five with the same team. The Tigers announced they were trading Horton, but neither team would announce who would go to Detroit from Texas until Horton gave his approval.

Foucault, Texas' top reliever last season with an 8-8 record and 3.32 ERA, has not appeared yet this season. The Rangers had picked up several relief pitchers during the off-season either by trades or by signing free agents. The trade came as a surprise to Ranger Manager Frank Lucchesi.

"Horton would go as a designated hitter," he conjectured, "but we already have plenty of those, so I don't know what to do." Following Monday's loss to the Blue Jays, Horton almost unwittingly predicted a trade, and indicated he would not oppose moving to another team.

"If you can't use a person," he said, "you ought to let him go some place else where he can play. I see a lot of other teams that I know I can play regularly for."

Watson hopes he masters T of C

LA COSTA, Calif. — Freckle-faced, red-haired Tom Watson, who won a green coat at Augusta last weekend, will head an elite field of 33 in the silver anniversary edition of the $225,000 Tournament of Champions, which gets underway Thursday. The 1977 Masters champion is the only three-time winner on the tour this year and leads in money won with $175,185.

This is the second year the Tournament of Champions has directly followed the Masters. A year ago, Raymond Floyd was seventh here after winning in Georgia. With a final-round 67 in the Masters Sunday, Watson, 27, probably shed his reputation — once and for all — of fading in the stretch. The Stanford psychology graduate withstood Jack Nicklaus' last-day 66 and won by two shots, carding seven birdies. Nicklaus, bidding for an unprecedented sixth Masters green coat, was runner-up.

Drivers gear for titles at Pocono

MT. POCONO, Pa. — A. J. Foyt-Johnny Rutherford and Richard Petty-David Pearson confrontations in 500 milers at Pocono Raceway in Pennsylvania could bear heavily on USAC and NASCAR driver championships this year. The $400,000 Schaefer 500 for Indianapolis-type cars on June 26 is one of three USAC long distance races that enables a winning driver to secure the maximum 1,000 points alloted for these classics.

Al Unser won at Pocono last year with Rutherford finishing second. Foyt took the checkered flag in 1973 and 1975. Qualifying this year is set for June 23. Pocono has served as the private battle ground the last three years for millionaire stock drivers Petty and Pearson. King Richard leads, 2-1, with victories in 1974 and 1976. Pearson, last year's Driver of the Year, captured the 1975 event. The $135,000 Coco-Cola 500 on the 2½ mile Tri-Oval is NASCAR's only stop on the Pennsylvania circuit. The race is scheduled for July 31, with qualifying the previous day.

Striking NBA officials picket arena

BOSTON — Four striking National Basketball Assoc. referees picketed outside Boston Garden Tuesday prior to the start of the first playoff game between the Boston Celtics and San Antonio Spurs. Manny Sokol, Lee Jones, Ed Rush and Walt Rooney paraded in front of the officials' entrance from 6:15 until 6:45 p.m. before they were moved to a side entrance by a Garden security official.

Inside, veteran Richie Powers — one of only two referees ignoring the 24-man boycott — officiated along with Eastern League referee Joe Crawford. Other striking referees picketed outside NBA buildings where playoff games were being held. The striking referees carried signs that read, "NBA unfair to labor."

Namath gets his walking papers

NEW YORK — The New York Jets announced Tuesday that quarterback Joe Namath had cleared waivers from the other 27 National Football League clubs and that he now is officially a free agent. The Jets did not reclaim Namath at the 4 p.m. EST deadline Tuesday, making him free to make his own deal.

Namath, one of the glamour names in pro football for more than a decade, was put on waivers by the Jets on April 1. Jet management had to decide on that date whether to waive Namath or pick up his contract for another season. Namath, through his New York based atorney, Jim Walsh, is etxpeced to continue negotiations with the Los Angeles Rams. The Rams have expressed interest in Namath and he has indicated that he wishes to continue his career only in Los Angeles.

Racquetball finals ahead

The pairings for the final rounds of play in the Paddock Publications 1977 Racquetball Tournament of Champions were announced this week upon completion of preliminary play at eight area clubs earlier this month.

The club champions in each of the nine different divisions will now clash in quarterfinal and semifinal matches Saturday with the two divisonal survivors meeting Sunday for the championships at Palatine's Buehler YMCA courts.

The largest field of finalists is in the Men's C Division where eight players are still hoping to land the winner's trophy. All eight clubs; Arlington Indoor Tennis, Buehler YMCA, The Court House (Arlington), The Court House (Schaumburg), Oakwood Racquet Club, Poplar Creek, Right Tennis Club and Woodfield Racquet Club, sent champions to play in this division.

Seven finalists remain in the Men's B Division, the Men's Seniors and the Men's Masters. Six players remain in the Men's A, Women's B and Women's C divisions.

Five finalists are competing in the Juniors, while three players remain in the Women's A Division.

Dick McFeely notches 2925 series

by DON CHRISTENSEN

Dick McFeely Pontiac stole the spotlight from the Paddock Classic Traveling League leaders at Sims Bowl in Des Plaines as they ripped off a 2925 team series.

After a two week absence because of American Bowling Congress Tournament commitments, Ray Lofthouse led the league and his teammates with a 630 series on games of 192, 219, 221 good for a three game sweep from Uncle Andy's Cow Palace.

The first game, as it turned out, was the closest game when Dick McFeely won 928 to 898. They stepped up the pace in the second game by rolled 989 to Uncle Andy's 861.

IN THE LAST game Gerry Withey's 230, Phil Smith's 211 and Ray LofthUse's 221 enabled Dick McFeely to roll over Uncle Andy's 1008 to 933. Although starting slowly, Gerry Withey shot 459 the last two games for Dick McFeely Pontiac.

Although the scores weren't as impressive, Weber's Bar-B-Que Kettles picked up some valuable ground on the league leaders by whipping Des Plaines Ace Hardware all three games and 20½ out of 25 points.

With the exception of the first game which was won by Weber's Kettles 843 to 838, Des Plaines Ace Hardware was never in the game as Weber's rolled to the final two scores of 981 and 910.

Formco Metal Products, meanwhile, took two games and 15 points from a stubborn, Mr. Norm's Grand Spaulding Dodge. Formco Metal with consistent shooting, took the first game 959 and 918 for Grand Spaulding Dodge.

The Dodgemen bounced back taking the second game, 960 to 934. Then Formco Metal Products showed its class in the last game by squashing Grand Spaulding 1020 to 928.

Rich Wagner slugged out scores of 204, 223 and 180 for a 607 series for Grand Spaulding Dodge to take individual honors in this match. Formco Metal Products now owns a 16-point lead with just two weeks left.

Beverly Lanes virtually put an end to Oost Produce's title hopes the second half when they took 20 of the 25 points on the strength of substitute Les Zikes' 221, 603 and Frank Billy's 258 and 626.

By rolling games of 938, 936 and 1000 for a team series of 2875, Beverly won comfortably over Oost Produce's totals of 905, 893 and 903 and 2701.

SOME IMPORTANT matches are on tap when the league moves to Buffalo Grove Striker Lanes Saturday. Here is the schedule - Webers Kettles vs Beverly Lanes, Des Plaines Ace Hardware vs Oost Produce, Grand Spaulding Dodge vs Dick McFeely Pontiac and Uncle Andy's Cow Palace vs Formco Metal Products.

STANDINGS

Formco Metal Products 218, Webers Kettles 202, Beverly Lanes 192, Oost Produce 184, Grand Spaulding Dodge 170, Des Plaines Ace Hardware 155.5 Dick McFeely Pontiac 155.5, Uncle Andy's Cow Palace 123.

Harris unravels 626 to pace women

Ziebart Rustproofing of Des Plaines anchorwoman Peggy Harris has quietly been holding her own in the Paddock Classic Women's Classic Traveling League.

Peggy has led the league in average in the past, but is fourth in the standings with a 182-pin average this season behind Lorrie Nichols' 191, Bette Brelle's 188 and a 188 by Lu Schoenberger.

Harris returned to unbeatable form and her Ziebart team was the big beneficiary. Peggy drilled games of 214, 195 and 217 for a brilliant 626 series as Ziebart tripped Mason Shoes, 5-2.

SUPPORTING the booming series were Carol Anderson with 510 and Tiny Cazel with 501. Mason replied with Sandi Cirullo's nifty 550-214, Irma Faust's 526-206, Peggy Wales' 521 and Rita Buge' 501, but it wasn't enough to offset Harris' set.

In other matches, Thunderbird Country Club topped L-Tran Engineering, 5-2, Ten Pin Bowl took Tower Cleaners, 5-2 and league-leading Striking Lanes rocked Petterson Safety Service, 5-2.

Thunderbird earned the top team series of the evening as Dee Kachelmuss rolled 574-213-201, Mary Yurs hit 560, Jean Ladd 528, Marge Carlson 515 and Joan Sobczak 500. L-Gran countered with Isobel Kosi's 555-206, Marlis Pleickhardt's 525 and Lorrie Nichols' 503.

Ten Pin emerged triumphant as Betty Peterman drilled 530-203, Marge Lindenberg 521 and Ethel Juenger 516. Tower rallied behind a pair of 494s by Jan Broderick and Betty Parkhurst.

STRIKING LANES, cruising to the second-half title, gave first-half winner Petterson Safety Service an idea of what the playoffs might be like as Striking's Lu Schoenberger hit 582-207 and Bette Brelle notched 531. Petterson replied on Bobbie Kostelny's 559-213.

STANDINGS

Striking Lanes 76, Ten Pin Bowl 58, L-Tran Engineering 57, Petterson Safety Service 54, Mason Shoes 44, Thunderbird Country Club 38, Ziebart of Des Plaines 37 and Tower Cleaners 28.

We get over 15,000 calls a day, and they're all person-to-person.

At Commonwealth Edison, our Customer Service telephones ring over 15,000 times a day. Most of the time, it's customers like you with questions about their electric service—questions we're happy to answer. Of course, we get complaints now and then. And some strange requests. But we get our compliments, too. Along with an occasional wrong number.

An average call? There's really no such thing. So our only guideline is to be efficient and courteous. Because even though our phone never seems to stop ringing, it still boils down to one person talking to another.

One down at trick one

Here is another example of the value of thought at trick one. South didn't bother to do his thinking. He dropped his four of hearts under East's ace. East continued the suit. South played his 10.

West won with the queen and cleared the suit.

South entered dummy with the king of spades and won a club finesse. Then he laid down his ace of clubs since there was no way to get back to dummy for a second finesse. The king failed to drop and another notrump game had wound up one trick short.

Let's see what some real thought at trick one would have been.

The first thought would be that West surely would hold the queen of hearts. Hence, South was only going to get one heart trick.

The second thought would be that four club tricks would be needed for game and that it would be nice to be able to lead twice from dummy just in case East held exactly three clubs to the king.

After this thought, South would drop his king of hearts, not the four spot. Dummy's jack would be a sure entry and South would have his four club tricks.

Ask Andy

Complex data used to predict the weather

Andy sends the Encyclopaedia Britannica's 1977 Yearbook of Science and the Future to Jodi Lin Bezzola, 10, of Ottawa, Ont., Canada, for her question:

HOW DO MEN FORECAST WEATHER?

Man has been trying to predict weather for thousands of years. Early Egyptians thought the stars could give some hints. Farmers, hunters and sailors always have been watching animals, plants, the sea and the sky. But it has taken the scientists time and much study to come up with the sound method used today to forecast the weather.

Storms were discovered to move from west to east. And after much experimenting and trial, it was found that the movement of storms could be charted and predicted.

Today thousands of weather observations are sent by telegraph and radio to central spots where the information is recorded. Next comes the plotting of the data on a map followed by an analysis and a forecast.

Observations presently are made at more than 100 weather stations across the United States. Instruments record such information as visibility, cloud formations, temperature readings and the speed and direction of wind. Precipitation details also are recorded.

Weather observations then are translated into a weather code composed of numbers arranged in groups. An international code is used to save time and expense. Language need be no problem in reading the reports, since only numbers tell the story.

The Analysis Center in Washington, D.C., collects the data on maps and makes forecasts. The analysis includes maps on which are drawn contour lines showing pressure, the locations of frontal boundaries and the determination of moisture and temperature properties of air masses.

Weather data, including sudden change in pressure, wind, rain and storms, is fed into computers to help meteorologists come up with their forecasts.

A prognostic weather forecast chart is made after all of the data are studied and analyzed. A team effort is definitely necessary for the final predictions and a large number of people are involved in the work.

The Weather Bureau in Washington issues daily forecasts. One report forecasts weather conditions two days in advance. In addition, five-day forecasts are made on a regular basis to help people plan ahead. Twice each month the bureau issues a 30-day forecast that takes a long look into the future.

Andy sends a Denoyer-Geppert World Globe to Dorothy Parker, 13, of Fairfield, Conn., for her question:

WHY AREN'T TYEPWRITER KEYS ARRANGED ALPHABETICALLY?

The letter keys on your tyepwriter are arranged for convenience, with the most frequently used letters in positions that are easy to reach. It's a tradition of long standing and all those who have learned the touch method of typing wouldn't want you to change a single a-s-d-f.

The first patent for a typewriter was issued in 1714, but a model by a Milwaukee printer named C. Latham Sholes was placed on the market in 1874 by the gunmakers of Ilion, N.Y., Remington and Sons. It became the ancestor of all modern typewriters. The first Remington wrote only in capital letters, but both upper and lower case letters came out in a model made in 1878. There have been a lot of changes for the better since those early days.

Do you have a question to Ask Andy? Send it on a post card with your name, age and complete address to Ask Andy in care of The Herald, P.O. Box 280, Arlington Heights, Ill. 60006. Entries are open to boys and girls 7 to 17.
